President Grooms An Arkansas Crowd Glad In Decided Negligee..Makes A Speech.

ROOSEVELT RECEIVED BY BIG CROWD

In Arkansas Today--Visits A United States Fort--First Rain Of The Entire Trip Grooms Him.

[SPECIAL BY SCRIPTS-M-R.] Little Rock, Ark., Oct. 25.—President Roosevelt made his first public appearance in Arkansas clad mainly in a raincoat. Secretary Loeb received him last night at a request for the President to speak but did not feel justified in waking the chief executive so early this morning. The whistles and shouts of the crowd assembled, however, were heard by Roosevelt and awoke him. He called for an explanation, donned a raincoat over his pajamas, stood in a drenching rain—the first encountered on this trip—and spoke. Before reaching Fort Logan H. Roots the President was photographed with the members of his party. Last night at Birmingham a local detective approached the President's carriage. Loeb ordered him back and the detective indignantly replied, "I'm a secret service man." "I don't care," said Loeb. "Don't get too close." The man continued to press forward and Loeb hit him on the jaw with his fist and sent him staggering back into the crowd. The train reached Fort Logan H. Roots at nine-fifteen.

At Little Rock, Oct. 25.—President Roosevelt and party arrived here this morning at nine o'clock over the Frisco system from Birmingham, Ala. The program here for the day includes a visit to Fort Logan H. Roots, a United States army post near the city, a luncheon by the board of trade and a mass-meeting at city park this afternoon, at which Mr. Roosevelt will make an address. The party leaves for Memphis this afternoon at 4 o'clock.

At Memphis, Tenn., Oct. 25.—Mr. Roosevelt and his party will meet with a great reception when they arrive here this afternoon. At this point, however, the party will separate. Mrs. Roosevelt, accompanied by John A. McHenry, John C. Green, friends of Mr. Roosevelt, representatives of the three press associations, stenographers Latta and McGrew of the White House staff and Col. L. S. Brown, will return to Washington by special train. President Roosevelt, Secretary Loeb and Surgeon-General Rixey of the navy will proceed to New Orleans, which place they will reach tomorrow morning. Fumigating for the President. New Orleans, La., Oct. 25.—The parks and all other places to be visited by President Roosevelt when he arrived here in the morning, were thoroughly fumigated today. The physicians, too, have completed arrangements by which Surgeon-General Rixey will be able to cut out the flesh around the spot immediately, should Mr. Roosevelt be bitten by a mosquito during his stay in New Orleans. Has Left Alabama. Birmingham, Ala., Oct. 25.—President Roosevelt left Alabama last night after a strenuous day of speechmaking, sightseeing and enthusiasm, and now is en route to Little Rock. Everywhere he was received by cheering throngs, and his progress across the state from Montgomery to Birmingham, via Tuskegee institute, was a triumphal march. The day began at 7 o'clock, when the special train left Montgomery for Tuskegee. Visits to the Tuskegee Normal and Industrial institute and to the Methodist female college were crowded into a little less than two hours, and the noon hour had just arrived when the executive, again stepped from his car in Montgomery. Here he spoke to a great throng under the shadow of Confederacy's first capitol and was on his way again sharply at 2 o'clock. A few minutes before 5 the president was the guest of Birmingham and his train left at 5:45 p. m. on the night run to Little Rock. The day was unmarked by any special incident save at Birmingham. Here, while the procession was passing, an intoxicated man in his excitement dropped a pistol from his pocket on the pavement. The president saw the affair and called the attention of officers to the man, who was immediately arrested. Gets Confederate Badge. A pretty incident at the close of the march here was when the president asked the name of the young woman riding at the side of his carriage. Miss Sammie Harris was sponsor for troop D, one of the local cavalry organizations. The president was introduced to her by Mayor Ward, who sat beside him, and as he reached over to shake her hand he crowded the city executive. Excusing himself, he said: "I would run over a man any time to shake hands with a lady." During the speechmaking several young women, daughters of Confederate soldiers, presented the president with a badge from Camp Hardee, United Confederate Veterans. In explaining the reasons for the gift former Gov. Joseph F. Johnston said: "We do this to express to your our (Continued on Page 4.)

LATE TELEGRAPHIC NEWS

[SPECIAL BY SCRIPTS-M-R.] Cleveland, O., Oct. 25.—H. S. Stors, general superintendent of the Lake Shore railroad, died this morning at his home here. Chinese Maneuvers. Shanghai, Oct. 25.—The Chinese army maneuvers, according to modern plans, are now in progress. The foreign officers are surprised at the efficiency and say the improvement in the Chinese troops is sensational. More Troops. Santiago, Chile, Oct. 25.—Three thousand troops arrived last night. Order has been restored. It is now believed sixty were killed during the rioting. Lieut. Knepper Resigns. Washington, Oct. 25.—Lieut. Oro S. Knepper, of Pennsylvania, severed his connection with the United States Navy today when his resignation took effect. He was appointed in 1891 and commissioned lieutenant in 1902. Unveiling of Monument. New Market, Va., Oct. 25.—A monument to the memory of the dead of the 54th Pennsylvania Volunteer Infantry, who fell at the battle of New Market, was unveiled today. Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 25.—Miss Grace Elliott Morris, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Henry Morris, the well known society leaders, was married here today to Mr. Philip Livingston Poe of Baltimore and Washington, at St. James church. The wedding was notable for the gifts to the couple, which aggregated thousands of dollars. Killed by Train. Iowa City, Iowa, Oct. 25.—Stella Dreyer, aged sixteen, an employee of the telegraph company here, was killed by a train while delivering a death message. Jerry Simpson Buried. Wichita, Kas., Oct. 25.—Jerry Simpson was buried in Maple Grove cemetery, this city, this afternoon. The funeral services were under the full Masonic ritual. Congressman Victor Mordock delivered the funeral oration.

Uncle Sam—I guess the big stick policy in this zone will have to be used on that fellow.

PUBLIC OWNERSHIP IN THE METROPOLIS

First Step in that Direction Was Taken Today When Five Ferry Boats Were Commissioned. [SPECIAL BY SCRIPTS-M-R.] New York, Oct. 25.—Five boats were put into commission between Staten Island and New York today, making the first step toward municipal ownership in this city. The service was installed with special ceremonies, Mayor McClellan and a number of prominent citizens taking the first trip across in the ferry boat Manhattan.

WILL AGAIN FIGHT BATTLE OF CRATER

An Unusual Feature Will Mark Grand Camp of Confederate Veterans. Petersburg, Va., Oct. 25.—The Grand Camp of the Confederate Veterans of Virginia began here today. The meeting is to be distinguished by an unusual feature. The battle of the Crater is to be fought over again on the old field at Petersburg.

INSURANCE MEN ARE TO HAVE VACATION

Investigation Is To Be Adjourned Until November 8, with Hyde on the Stand. [SPECIAL BY SCRIPTS-M-R.] New York, Oct. 25.—McClintock was on the stand again this morning in the insurance investigation. Attention was called to a portion of the Fick report inveighing against the "deferred dividend" plan of insurance. McClintock took an hour to explain the system, giving his opinion. He said the people are confused by the word "surplus." "Which," the witness said, "is not something to play with, but a reservation from interest on premiums." The committee adjourned this afternoon until Nov. 8, when J. H. Hyde will be examined.

STATE NOTES

The Sparta Odd Fellows held their annual game dinner Tuesday evening, following their regular yearly hunt. Morrison Bros' hardware store at Morrisville was burglarized early Monday of knives, razors, and silverware. Fred Chapman of Portage, aged 39, while hunting on Sunday accidentally shot himself in one leg, which he may lose. Rollo, the 5-year-old son of Peter Phil of Woodland, is dead as the result of falling upon a sharp piece of iron, which penetrated his skull. John Dempsey, 50 years of age, and an employee of the North-Western road, was slashed with a razor at Ranney, Kenosha county, on Monday, and is in a critical condition. The North-Western Railway company has filed a $75,000 bond insuring its faithful performance of the work of constructing the new west side belt line at Sheboygan. The school board has taken action against fraternities in Madison high school and now there is talk of taking the matter into court. Joseph Fohrman, aged 87 years, one of Green Bay's earliest settlers, died.

RUSSIAN RAILROADS ARE STILL TIED UP

Trains Run Into Moscow This Morning Under Armed Guards—Trainmen Threatened. [SPECIAL BY SCRIPTS-M-R.] St. Petersburg, Oct. 25.—A train was run into Moscow today, which was accompanied by great danger. The engineer was threatened with death if he did not desert his post, but he stuck. The strikers attacked the troops guarding the train at several stations. Dispatchers in various districts say the trouble is growing worse and revolutionists are gathering.

The tieup here prevented the British ambassador from leaving today, as he intended to for a two months' leave of absence at home. A train bearing five hundred sick and wounded soldiers from the war is stalled near the city. The sufferers cannot be taken into the hospitals. A dispatch from Riga says anarchy exists there. Frequent bloody affrays and many casualties are reported. Three government shops were destroyed. A railway cashier was murdered and twenty-five thousand roubles stolen. Moscow Is Isolated. Owing to the stoppage of mails and partial suspension of telegraphs it is impossible to verify many reports reaching the capital. The most threatening of these at present refer to Moscow, which is described as being isolated from the remainder of the empire and as being held by the strikers.

The strike is spreading in all directions. Yaroslav, Nijni Novgorod, Simbirsk, Sibirsk, Saratoff, Voronezh, Kharkoff, Simferopol, Ekaterinoslav, Kieff, and Smolensk are all affected. On the Moscow, Wladau and Rybinsk line the evening express could only reach Potimokhovskaya station and the passengers were compelled to walk to Moscow. At the Moscow and Kazan station 2,000 passengers are waiting. They are being paid by the railroad administration, first and second class 50 cents daily and third class 25 cents. The strikers have damaged the water conduit between Moscow and Mytishchi and some sections of Moscow are without water. The employees of seven factories at Lodz have struck. There are now 38,000 workmen on strike. The governor has asked the governor general of the province to declare martial law.

STATE EMPLOYEES WALKER

It is stated that the strikers have ordered the postoffice telegraph employees to strike, and these having their own grievances are alleged to be complying. Municipal employees are said to be wavering as to the course they will pursue. One report says they ultimately will join the strikers. Officials are demanding that the railway men's grievances be redressed or they will join the movement forthwith. Another report asserts that a municipal strike has begun. The employees of the water works have quit work, causing the city to be without water. It is predicted there will be civil war in Moscow owing to the action of shopkeepers, who, fearing ruin through disturbance of trade, are arming themselves against the strikers.

CYRIL'S DISMISSAL CREATES BAD ODOR

Rendered Valiant Services to Russians in Late War, and Czar's Action is Criticized. [SPECIAL BY SCRIPTS-M-R.] St. Petersburg, Oct. 25.—The Emperor, who has been indisposed at the palace at Peterhof started for St. Petersburg today. It is not believed that he will listen to the friends of the Grand Duke Cyril in modifying the punishment meted out to the latter for marrying the Grand Duchess Victoria of Hesse, divorced wife of the Czarina's brother. There seems to be no abatement of the bad impression created by Cyril's dismissal from the Navy in the light of his services during the war.

VERY RADICAL STEP IS CONTEMPLATED

Talk in Missouri of Prohibiting New York Life Insurance Company from the State. [SPECIAL BY SCRIPTS-M-R.] Jefferson City, Mo., Oct. 27.—State Superintendent of Insurance Vandiver today gave a hearing to attorneys for the New York Life Insurance Co. regarding his proposed action to stop the company from doing business in the state. It is not expected that the result of his decision will be made public before he has conferred with Governor Folk in the matter.

HARRIMAN SPECIAL MAKES FASTER TIME

Than Was Said Would Be Made Yesterday When Train Left Utah Coming East. [SPECIAL BY SCRIPTS-M-R.] Omaha, Oct. 25.—The Harriman special passed Kearney, Neb., without stopping at 4:21 this morning, going through the city at the rate of a mile a minute. It made the ninety-six miles from North Platte to Kearney in ninety-eight minutes, and from Grand Island to Columbus, sixty-two miles, in sixty-one minutes. The pilot of the train was hardly able to keep ahead. It passed Fremont going seventy miles an hour with no stop. The pilot engine was forced to sidetrack on account of a hot box. Fast Train. Omaha, Oct. 25.—The Harriman special arrived here at 9:25 this morning, having made the run from San Francisco in 29 hours and 54 minutes, sixteen hours ahead of the regular schedule time. Director Kreuschnitt of the Union Pacific says the talk of the President protesting against the speed of the train is nonsense. He says the newspapers made a faster schedule than could be run.

THE FIRST NECESSITY.

"If you are kind and polite to your little playmates they will love you and always be ready to do you a kindness in return." "Yes, but I'll have to lick the bunch first." Playing with matches resulted fatally for Vernon Hart, the 4-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur B. Hart of Oshkosh.

SCOFIELD WON FIRST POINTS

Supreme Court Decides That The Milwaukee Free Press Used Actionable Words.

IT OVERRULES ITS LATEST APPEAL

Held That Editorials Used Would Tend To Injure The Former Governor--Important Ruling by The Highest State Tribunal.

[Special to The Gazette.] Madison, Wis., Oct. 25.—The Wisconsin supreme court yesterday decided that the Milwaukee administration organ, its editor, and directors must stand trial in the libel case brought against them a year ago by former Gov. Edward Scofield. The case is based on articles, editorials, and communications published shortly before the election a year ago, when Mr. Scofield headed the national republican ticket. The complaint alleged that the administration organ had for many years pursued a course of malicious attack and defamation against the plaintiff and cited specific cases where the organ asserted in substance that the late Senator Sawyer paid a large amount of money for the senatorship, that Mr. Scofield had been his distributing agent and had sent $500 to a Door county merchant for the purpose of corrupting and bribing members of the legislature in order to secure their votes for Mr. Sawyer for senator.

Considered Publication Libelous. The defendants demurred to the complaint and the trial court overruled the demurrers. The defendants then appealed to the supreme court, which now affirms the ruling of the lower court. The opinion was written by Justice Dodge. From the text of the opinion the inference is plain that the court considers the publications libelous. "Sweeping aside all of the technical refinements urged by applicants, such as the absence of any express understanding with legislative candidates that they would favor the contributor, or of any showing whether he expected they would use his contributions for legitimate campaign expenses or otherwise, we can not doubt that the charge of using money in large quantities in the hope and expectation of thereby promoting his own candidacy for the United States senate is a most degrading one to make against any public man. Assault Upon Popular Government. "Such an act is an assault upon a most essential principle of popular government which, if to be successful, must assume the free selection of officials on grounds of fitness; it pretends a superiority before the law of ability and integrity, who, either from poverty or principle, is debased from similar means or securing support; it evinces a willingness to corrupt the legislature and a dangerous looseness of morals. "Gloomy, indeed, would be the prospect if we must believe that such conduct would not evoke general condemnation and disgust. But we do not believe it, nor did the defendants when they published the article under criticism. It would be puerile to suggest that such publication was in glorification of the memory of Senator Sawyer by laudation of his generosity and public spirit; but it was either that or an attempt to appeal to a well apprehended sentiment against the lavish use of money by men seeking public preferment. Could we otherwise doubt of the existence of such a sentiment among the people of Wisconsin, that doubt must yield to the fact that they have long before this publication unambiguously evinced it by placing the stigma of actual criminality upon acts such as charged against Sawyer and, by complicity, upon the plaintiff. In 1897 it was made a crime to contribute money toward the election expenses of legislative candidates, except within the district of the contributor's own residence. "Capable of Libelous Meaning. "We have already said enough to indicate our view that the words themselves, without any elucidation by way of innuendo, as to the charge intended, are capable of a defamatory and libelous meaning; hence, the assertion in part of the complaint that they served to charge a crime, if untrue, may be disregarded as mere surplusage. The plaintiff is bound by his innuendo only when that is necessary to make apparent the defamatory character of the words used. "It should be noted, however, that while the complaint does not assert that the whole article of Sept. 22, taken together, charges crime, a mere limited innuendo is applied to the statements that plaintiff was distributing agent and that he sent $500 of the opinion. The opinion is most carefully worded and reviews the case from beginning to end, substantiating the findings by minute reference to existing cases. The whole suit grew out of the bitter fight which occurred just previous to the election of 1904. The opinion in full is as follows: "The editorial of Sept. 21 is clearly capable of being understood to charge that during the political campaign of 1896, when were to be elected the legislators upon whose suffrages depended the outcome of this own candidacy for the United States senate, Mr. Sawyer paid out to legislative candidates large sums of money for the purpose of so securing their support and his election, for it is stated, as a 'price paid' for the senatorship, and that when the legislature convened he claimed and had undisputed ownership of it; also that he thereby 'bought and paid for what he got.' This idea is carried forward into the article of Sept. 22 by the heading thereof, 'Price paid for a senatorship,' and again by reference to such expenditures in the article as the 'cost of a United States senatorship.' Then in the latter and alleged libelous article the plaintiff is declared to have participated in Mr. Sawyer's acts, for referring to the previous editorial, it states that plaintiff was Sawyer's distributing agent in the northern part of the state. These assertions are not qualified or weakened by any of the instances, but enforced by one illustrative instance. "Not Necessary to Allege a Crime. "Stopping here for the moment and disregarding all attempts of the plaintiff by innuendo to give special significance to the published article, is the plain and ordinary meaning of the words as above stated 'libelous.' To be so they need only to tend to degrade or disgrace the plaintiff generally, or to so subject him to public distrust, ridicule or contempt in the com-

DAVIDSON MAKES PLAY FOR THE VOTES OF THE MASSES

Follows Lead Of La Follette In Declaring Special Tax Is Not Necessary.

[Special to The Gazette.] Madison, Wis., Oct. 25.—Acting Governor Davidson did yesterday just what Governor La Follette did for the two preceding years and which is said to have politically helped the governor in great measure. He formally decided that it would be unnecessary this year to raise any money by taxation for the expenses of the government of the state. The only taxes to be collected this year as "state taxes" will be the mill fraction for the support of the schools. This is looked upon as a state tax, as the money collected is not used for the expenses of the state government and is in fact reapportioned back to the counties in proportion to the number of school age in each. The school tax works for the benefit of the thinly populated and poorer counties of the northern part of the state. They receive much more than they pay, while in the richer and more thickly populated counties of southern Wisconsin, notably Rock, Dane, Milwaukee, Walworth and Waukesha, the counties pay school taxes largely in excess of what they receive back from the state. The law allows the laying of a state tax sufficient to cover the expenses of the government. The acting governor, secretary of state and treasurer met in the capitol and considered the finances of the state. They came to the conclusion that the cash on hand together with the estimated income of the state for the coming year amounted to enough so that it would be unnecessary to collect more by direct taxation. No account was taken of the money which may be collected from the railroads if the state wins in all the litigation now in progress. The receipts for the general fund of the state for 1906 were estimated at $4,710,000, of which some $2,500,000 will be paid by the railroads.

WAS ROOSEVELT TOO ARBITRARY?

IS CRITICISED FOR TWO RULINGS RECENTLY MADE.

GOSSIP FROM WASHINGTON

Interstate Commerce Commission Will Be Unfavorably Talked About Generally.

(From William Wolff Smith, Special Correspondence.)

Washington, D. C.—The action of the Interstate Commerce Commission in postponing the hearings on the subject of private car lines, their relations with the railroads and their charges until November 1, is likely to subject the commission to much unfavorable criticism. The opponents of rate legislation have all along contended that one of the greatest difficulties in the way of the regulation of rates by the government was that the delays of the interstate commission in several cases had shown that their attempting to adjust all differences between shippers and carriers was an interminable task. To this the commission has responded that the delays have been due to the railroads who sought postponements, and kept the cases dragging. In this instance that defense will not lie, for the attorneys did everything in their power to have the case at issue closed on October 21st. They represented that the commission had examined all the witnesses in attendance, that it had volumes of testimony taken at previous hearings in various parts of the country and more volumes of evidence submitted in writing; finally, in an effort to secure an order at an early date, they waived all privileges of producing witnesses and offered the case to the commission without argument. The commission, however, decided to continue the hearing in November. Whether or not the case will then be closed is problematical.

It is suspected that one of the reasons why the attorneys for the railroads and the private car lines were so anxious to have the taking of testimony concluded was that by far the greater part of the evidence produced at the Washington hearing was favorable to their contentions. Although the commission examined only witnesses summoned by them. Without reviewing the testimony in detail, it may be safely said that instead of being unfavorable to the railroads and car lines as was expected, it was quite the reverse. For some time the impression has been prevalent that the railroads hated the private car lines and would gladly see them abolished. It was therefore surprising when one after another of the railroad officials testified that their roads could not perform the service themselves as satisfactorily or as reasonably as it was being performed by the private car lines.

How much weight the testimony of these men will have remains to be seen. The commission, like the public, is apparently convinced that the refrigeration charges are unreasonable largely because of the prejudice against private car lines. Nevertheless the expert testimony of traffic managers and other railroad men who make a specialty of this business should have some weight.

In their argument against the further postponing of the hearing, the counsel made the point which is worth considering. They represented that until an order was made by the commission and a judicial decision as to its jurisdiction was obtained, their business and that of the railroads and shippers, was extremely unsettled. Until it was decided whether the commission had jurisdiction, and if it had, whether the present rates were reasonable, it was impossible

ONLY A SUGGESTION.

But It Has Proven Of Interest and Value to Thousands.

Common sense would suggest that if one wishes to become fleshy and plump it can only result from the food we eat and digest and that food should be albuminous or flesh-forming food, like eggs, beefsteak, and cereals; in other words the kinds of food that make the flesh are the foods which form the greater part of our daily bills of fare.

But the trouble is that while we eat enough and generally too much, the stomach, from abuse and overwork, does not properly digest and assimilate it, which is the reason so many people remain thin and underweight; the digestive organs do not completely digest the food forming beefsteak and eggs and similar whole-some food.

There are thousands of such who are really confirmed dyspeptics, although they may have no particular pain or inconvenience from their stomachs. If such persons would lay their prejudices aside and make a regular practice of taking, after each meal one or two of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets the food would be quickly and thoroughly digested, because these tablets contain the natural pepsines and diastase which every weak stomach lacks, and by supplying this want the stomach is soon enabled to reach its natural tone and vigor.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets digest every form of food, forming food, meat, eggs, bread and potatoes, and this is the reason they so quickly build up strength and invigorate thin, dyspeptic men, women and children.

Invalids and children, even the most delicate, use them with marked benefit as they contain no strong, irritating drugs, no cathartic nor any harmful ingredient.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are the most successful and most widely known of any remedy for stomach troubles because they are the most reasonable and scientific of modern medicines.

Nothing further is required to cure any stomach trouble or to make thin, nervous, dyspeptic people, strong, plump and well.

to continue the making of the necessary arrangements to handle the rapidly increasing business. To do so contracts had to be made for cars, the construction of ice houses and icing stations, with the ice manufacturers and dealers and with the railroads. They therefore pleaded for speedy action by the commission that they might know where they stood.

Before President Roosevelt left Washington he took action in several matters which will furnish gossip until his return. The first was in the case of the civil service where he issued an order that any one in the civil service could be summarily dismissed by the President or a Cabinet officer if the same found the officeholder to be personally incompetent or inefficient or guilty of misconduct. This order revolutionized the civil service for all a Cabinet officer has to do is to declare a clerk to be inefficient and his job is gone. There is no going behind the return for the Cabinet officer is the sole judge either of "misconduct" or of "inefficiency." While it is improbable that a Cabinet officer would exert this power without good cause, yet the mere fact that it is there to be invoked at their pleasure, is a menace to the civil service, the magnitude of which is easily comprehensible. The next step would be a similar order permitting members of the Cabinet to appoint persons to civil service positions if they personally knew them to be competent, when the old civil service vanishes entirely. If a man can be removed at the pleasure of a President or Cabinet officer it is difficult to see the justice of requiring him to pass through an examination in competition with other candidates. For the prestige of President Roosevelt, it is extremely regrettable that this order should be predicated on the alleged disrespectful action of a chauffeur of a government vehicle. This man, it is claimed, obstructed the passage of the President's carriage and when the Secret Service men who accompanied the carriage on bicycles, ordered him aside, spoke to him in a somewhat emphatic and disrespectful manner. He said he did not recognize them nor did he know the President was there. Whether he did or not, the fact remains that the order was issued giving plenary powers to Cabinet officers and his head was the first to fall. A dispassionate observer might think that the man was at least entitled to some sort of a hearing even if only a minor government employee.

The other order was one affecting the newspaper correspondents, in which it was directed that the Cabinet officers should not only refuse to give out information to the press, but also decline to discuss the policy of the administration or policies of their departments with newspapermen. All news of this character is hereafter to be machine made and handed to the press associations, in nicely typewritten form. The furore which this order caused in newspaper circles can well be imagined. The reasons given for the order in the letters to the Cabinet, sent out by the ubiquitous Mr. Loeb, were ridiculous and insulting to the corps of correspondents. The Cabinet officers were warned not to give news to a correspondent because they "felt sorry" for him and particularly cautioned against conversing with the correspondents at their homes. The Washington correspondents have long had an enviable and deserved reputation for probity. Occasionally there is one who believes it professional to flinch information and who does not hesitate to bribe government employees or to steal news. Fortunately such cases are extremely rare and men guilty of such practices do not remain long in the profession at the Capital. Consequently the imputation that Cabinet officers must be on their guard lest, in the sanctity and privacy of their own homes, they should betray a secret to a friend among the correspondents, is a gratuitous imputation most seriously reflecting on the honor of the entire profession.

The word comes from Indiana that Representative Fred Landis will not be a candidate next year for reelection. It appears that two years ago when he was making a hard fight for a renomination against Major Steele, Landis promised Dr. Goode, of Huntington county, who was supporting him, that he would not ask a third race, if the doctor wanted to enter the field, but would support him. The doctor agreed and now enlists on Landis for a free race and the Representative purposes to be as good as his word. Mr. Landis, who is a young brother of Representative Charles B. Landis, also of Indiana, is now serving his second term in Congress.

ROAST PIG SERVED AS A CENTER-PIECE

At the Elaborate Banquet Given in McClure's Private Dining Hall for Wm. Buchanan Last Night.

In the private dining-room over the McClure restaurant last evening an elaborate banquet was tendered William Buchanan by a score of his most intimate friends. The room was hung with American and English flags and decorated with potted plants and flowers in honor of the occasion and in the center of the long table glimmered with silver and glass reposed a forty-pound roast pig. Cuisine, service, and all the appointments were beyond criticism and the feast will long be remembered by the fortunate participants. The donors of the entertainment had on several previous occasions been guests of Mr. Buchanan at his pleasant home in the second ward and took this means of showing their appreciation of his generous hospitality.

Prince Gustavus Adolphus, now the duke of Connaught's son-in-law, is a great-grandson of the German Emperor, William I, and his ancestors include King Gustavus III of Sweden, King George II of England, grand dukes of Baden and highnesses of Bavaria and Wurtemberg.

SWINDLERS WORKING IN RURAL DISTRICTS

Fraudulently Sell Worthless School Charts to Rural Commisstoners.

School authorities are having trouble on account of swindlers from Chicago who have been selling practically worthless agricultural charts to the boards of the rural districts at $47.50 each. The swindlers represent themselves as authorized authorities of the state superintendent in some cases and in others as representatives of a Chicago school supply and publishing house. They show a sample chart, exhibit what purports to be the official seal of the state superintendent and "legit" a contract for the chart. If the board member is reluctant the agent refers to the law passed by the last legislature for the teaching of agriculture in the graded schools and inquires whether or not the member proposes to obey the law. This usually "fotches" him and an order on the treasurer of the district is secured for the amount of $47.50. The charts are sent later by express. The orders have been realized on and have fallen into the hands of innocent third parties and some of them are being paid by reluctant school boards. The matter has been brought to the attention of the state school authorities and although the announcement is not yet made in the form of an official opinion, the strong impression prevails that the orders are no good and cannot be collected even though in the possession of the third parties. The statutes declare that school orders are not negotiable paper, and moreover the orders were obtained by fraud and misrepresentation.

NEW CATECHISM HAS BEEN ISSUED THAT

Urges Civil Marriage by Catholics the World Over—Would Compromise with Laws.

A new departure from the long-standing traditions of the Roman Catholic church is to be found in the new catechism which eventually will be adopted as the only text of Christian doctrine in every Catholic diocese of the world. While in the past the church authorities were opposed to the celebration of the civil marriage ceremony by Catholics, claiming that it was not necessary, the new catechism explicitly inculcates the necessity for Catholics to contract a civil as well as a religious marriage "in order that the contracting parties and their children may enjoy the civil rights of the marriage state." In the same catechism, which is the personal work of Pius X, it also is stated that the Pope intends to call together an ecumenical council in order to complete the providential work of the Vatican council, which was interrupted by the events of 1870. This official statement of the Pope has caused a sensation in Rome, as it is taken to indicate that Pius X is determined to prosecute the work of reform he has begun throughout the church. Monsignor Symon, the Polish prelate who for several months past was in the United States investigating the conditions prevailing among the Polish Catholics in that country, was received by the Pope in special audience last Tuesday. It was said that the prelate's mission to America failed of its principal object—that of satisfying Polish demands for special privileges, and the appointment of a Polish Bishop with jurisdiction over all Polish Catholics.

COAL TAKEN FROM A FREIGHT CAR MISSED

By the St. Paul Ry. Co., and Investigation Resulted in Arrest and Confession of Thieves.

Late yesterday afternoon Bud Downer and William Waldon appeared in municipal court to answer to the charge of stealing coal from the C. M. & St. P. Ry. Co. Both pleaded guilty and the former paid a fine and costs amounting to $12.55, while the latter went to jail for twelve days in default of payment. It appears that on Friday last the two men drove to the brickyard on Pleasant street and helped themselves to some of the black diamonds from a loaded car that had been left on a side-track there. The coal was missed and Special Agent Romain was sent here by the Milwaukee office of the railroad to investigate. With the assistance of Marshal Appleby and Officer Brown the guilty parties were located. Waldon claims that he merely assisted Downer, having no use for the fuel, himself.

LUTHERAN CHURCH IS NOW ANTI-DIVORCE

Will Refuse to Allow Remarriage of Any Divorced People by Their Ministers.

Divorcees are refused the marriage sacrament by the Lutheran church under an edict of the general conference recently in session at Milwaukee, the resolution instructing pastors to refuse to marry any divorced person except the innocent party in cases of a decree granted for the two scriptural reasons, adultery and wilful desertion, and not to marry such persons within a year of the granting of the divorce. Pastors knowingly violating this rule will be held by the general council as participants in the guilt of the parties married. This action comes after twenty years of agitation in the council.

Great Britain's Bicycle Output. Great Britain's output of bicycles for 1905 is estimated at from 250,000 to 300,000. To Coventry is assigned 150,000 of these, and 60,000 to Birmingham, Wolverhampton, Redditch and Nottingham.

LIBRARY BOARD TO MEET SOON

MATTER OF BUILDING IN EDGERTON HAS BEEN AT STANDSTILL.

TO LET CONTRACT SHORTLY

Edgerton High School Playing Baseball This Fall—News of People and Events.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.) Edgerton, Oct. 25.—It now seems probable that a meeting of the Public Library board will be held within the next few weeks to take action on the matter of erecting a new building, utilizing the ten thousand dollar gift from Andrew Carnegie. The matter has been practically at a standstill for some time but it is believed that something will soon be done toward the letting of the contract. H. A. Foeller of Green Bay, who was hired by the board to draw plans, submitted a set that was accepted a few months ago. These have been altered slightly, but will no doubt be used, as they are considered generally satisfactory. These plans call for the rebuilding of the old Baptist church, at a cost of ten thousand, to include interior fittings and furnishings. When the board meets they will determine upon the time of advertising for bids and whether the building and furnishing contracts will be let separately or together. It is probable that they will be let separately. The contracts will be signed this fall or in the early winter and building commenced as soon as the weather will permit in the spring. The new Carnegie building will contain a kitchen and 350itorium—seating between 300 and 350 people—on the first floor or basement, and on the second floor, the library proper, a private office for the librarian, a board room and a room for the women's clubs. The school already has a good collection of books which is growing rapidly and the new building will give Edgerton an excellent public library.

No Football Team This Fall. To school which is the better school in athletics the Edgerton and Albion high school baseball teams will soon meet, if a date can be arranged. The nine have played two games this fall, Albion winning one by a score of 6 to 5 and Edgerton being victorious in the other by a score of 2 to 1. Neither high school is playing football this autumn, heavy material being lacking in both. In Edgerton it was impossible to raise an eleven satisfactorily. Professor Roethel refused to allow any boys to the school and the parents, which many failed in gain, and it was considered inadvisable to draw upon the grades for players.

Play Out Door Basketball. Having no gymnasium and being deprived of winter athletics, which are usual among the high school girls, the young ladies of the Edgerton school have had their play had out door basketball. They have had out door basketball and have been enjoying the games among themselves during the few hours between the close of school and supper time. This sport will continue as long as the present fine weather lasts.

POTATO CROP WILL BE BELOW AVERAGE

Wisconsin's Famous Yield Will Be Less This Year Than Formerly.

Wisconsin's potato crop for the year is but one-half as large as last year's crop, says a statement issued by the state board of agriculture which bases its estimate on reports supplied from various counties. The potato blight caused great damage in the counties where the crop is the heaviest and this will result in the crop being short. In the southern counties much damage resulted from rot and the crop will be about 53 per cent of last year. Grains show an average of from 88 to 97 per cent of the usual crop. The final report of the board will be issued November 15.

FRESHMAN GAME WILL BE BITTER CONTEST

Even Coach King Takes a Hand in Developing Ought Nine for Contest.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.) Madison, Wis., Oct. 25.—Phil King will make no change in the Wisconsin football team for the game with Minnesota and unless injuries or sickness prevent, the same line-up will be sent against Chicago. The selection of right guard, right tackle and left end was a problem of the last two weeks, but a showing made against the maroons by Gelback, Johnson and Findley in these three positions, respectively, has fixed the minds of the coaches in their favor. In order to have as much weight and energy available against Minnesota, the badgers will be fed up during the coming five days and not much strenuous work will be given, it being the belief of the coaches that the men were in the pink of condition for Chicago, so far as knowledge of football is concerned, and the one great effort will be to improve them physically. Most of the work at Camp Randall this week is between the freshmen and the second eleven. The badger freshmen meet the youngsters of Minnesota and from the time that King and Holt are devoting to the assistance of E. S. Driver, coach of the freshmen, it would appear that much importance is attached to the contest of the first-year men.

When you ask for Mrs. Anscher's Pancakes, insist upon having it and say Mrs. Anscher's and no other.

UNIQUE CLUB GIVES ITS ANNUAL DANCE

Brilliant Affair at Assembly Hall Last Evening Was Attended by Nearly Two Hundred Couples.

Assembly hall was resplendent with many lights, brightly colored bunting, and a profusion of flowers and greens last evening, the occasion being the annual ball of the Unique Club. Kneff & Hatch's orchestra discoursed a series of inspiring dance numbers for nearly two hundred couples and the affair proved one of the most brilliant and enjoyable of the season. The committee of arrangements consisted of Charles Strickler, Bert Coyne, Victor Enright, Richard McCuen, and Martin Timmons; and the floor management, of Alfred Jerg, Henry Casey, Edward Connel, William Murphy, and Thomas Baker.

Great Land for Horse-Breeding. Marien Advertiser: Wisconsin farmers and breeders should engage in the horse-breeding industry with enterprise and intelligence. ## Labor Notes

The anthracite coal operators declare that they will not, under any consideration, grant the demand of the mine-workers for an eight-hour day, and that they proposed only to agree that the present agreement shall be continued.

The situation in the Dombrovo coal district of Russian Poland, and the Donetsk coal district in southern Russia, where the miners have been on strike for several months, is said to be growing serious.

The labor troubles resulting from the strike of the Berlin electrical workers still continue. It is stated that the weaving industry will be the next involved. It is also stated that a number of workers have presented demands to their employers and given them one week to answer. It is unofficially stated that the employers in their reply will refuse the workers' demand and that a lockout involving 20,000 persons will be the result. Discontent is spreading among the Saxon textile workers.

Mail delivery wagon drivers at New York went on strike recently for an increase of wages.

IT IS

AS EASILY REGULATED AS A LAMP—every door, draft and joint on the famous genuine ROUND OAK Heating Stove fits. Pains-taking workmanship, right principle of construction, with the best material money will buy, are the reasons why this famous stove holds the fire, saves the fuel and satisfies the purchaser.

You take no chances when you decide on a ROUND OAK, no matter what kind of fuel you wish to burn—hard coal (with or without magazine), soft coal, coke or wood.

With the hot blast (used only for soft coal), a steady, even fire is secured which consumes the soot and gases; the double fire pot, with cone-center grate with rim discharge, prevents the formation of clinkers.

Think what a satisfaction that is—just shaking the grate cleans the entire bottom of the fire alike.

There is no other stove like it—others are made to look like it, but there the resemblance stops.

Look for the name on the leg, then you will know it is the original, genuine ROUND OAK.

= FORTY YEARS AGO =

Janesville Daily Gazette, Wednesday, October 25, 1895.—On a Strike.—The journeyman tailors in this city, we understand, have struck for higher wages, and are to receive an advance after November 1st. Those who have not bought their clothing will do well to "wade in" at once, if they do not wish to feel the effect of the advance.

At the Miltonian tableaux last night as our devil sat reviewing the pictures of our first parents, he asked of a brother typo at his side: "Do you know that Adam and Eve went into the sorghum business soon after they were banished from the Garden of Eden?" "No, did they?" "Yes, as soon as they got 'able to work they raised cane.' That's a bad boy, that devil."

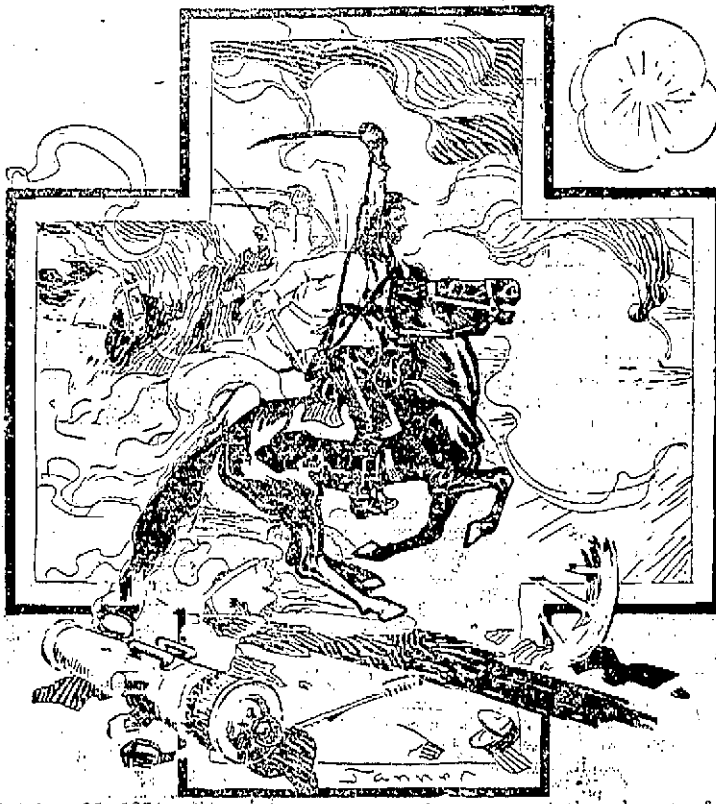

Wisconsin Military Appointments.—The following commissions have been issued by the Government since October 1, 1895.

Thirtieth Regiment—Augustus H. Kuramel, colonel, vice Lyon, minister of war; Chas. S. Noyes, Lt. Col.; S. C. Cobb, Maj.; A. W. Lowmeyer, 1st Lt.; and Adjt.; John Auld, captain; Olney G. Gibbs, 1st Lt.; David H. Wood, 2d Lt.; Geo. H. Cameron, captain; Henry H. Knox, 1st Lt.; James Johnson, 2d Lt.; Forty-eighth—Charles E. Pratt, 2d Lieutenant; Forty-ninth—Henry Green, 2d Lieutenant; Fiftieth—Richard Hallock, 2d Lieutenant.

Third Cavalry (reorganized)—J. B. Pond, major; Leonard B. Luce, captain; Quincy Loveland, 1st Lieutenant; Bolivar, 2d Lieutenant; Matthew Reubenstein, captain; Henry E. Banks, 1st Lieutenant; Calvin Spooner, 2d Lieutenant; Frederick A. Copeland, 2d Lieutenant; W. T. McMillan, 2d Lieutenant.

The agent of the New Military History of Wisconsin, Mrs. E. B. Quiner, will be in the city only a few days canvassing for said work. This work will contain a complete history of the part Wisconsin has borne in the war just closed, giving an account of each regiment, its organization, a sketch of its officers and a history of its campaigns, together with a list of killed and wounded of each regiment and battery, and handsomely illustrated with numerous steel engravings of the most prominent men of our nation and state. All would do well to avail themselves of this opportunity for subscribing.

..COMING ATTRACTIONS..

When "Little Johnny Jones" is seen at the Myers Grand this evening, the theatre-going public of this city will have an opportunity of witnessing what last season proved the biggest musical hit of the entire year. Last season was a notable one in the theatrical world for the production of new musical plays, at least forty productions having been made by producing managers during the season. None of them, however, reached such a phenomenal degree of success as "Little Johnny Jones," which probably boasts of a record of twenty-one weeks in New York City, several weeks in Boston, four weeks in Philadelphia, and over three months in Chicago. It was not witnessed outside of the very largest cities, but by the strenuous efforts on the part of our local manager, he has succeeded in securing this attraction for a presentation in this city. "Little Johnny Jones" is claimed to be the most original musical play that has been presented for many seasons, inasmuch as it has a plot and a dramatic story which at times is almost sensational. For this reason, "Little Johnny Jones" has frequently been termed a musical melodrama by the critics. It was written and composed by George M. Cohan, who is also the author of several pretentious musical productions. "The Governor's Son" and "Running for Office," "Little Johnny Jones" contains twenty musical numbers all of which have obtained great vogue, and have been so widely sung and played throughout America that their delightful melody is now familiar to almost every home in the country. It is safe to say that there is no theatrical attraction on tour this season that presents such a massive and complete production, on which contains such a large number of people on its pay rolls. "Little Johnny Jones" is in three acts and four scenes, all of which are sumptuously mounted, the first act displaying a very realistic picture of the exterior of the Hotel Cecil, in London, England, the second act the steamship pier at Southampton, Eng-

WOMEN'S NEGLECT

SUFFERING THE SURE PENALTY

Health Thus Lost Is Restored by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

How many women do you know who are perfectly well and strong? We hear every day the same story over and over again. "I do not feel well; I am so tired all the time!"

More than likely you speak the same words yourself, and no doubt you feel far from well. The cause may be easily traced to some derangement of the female organs which manifests itself in depression of spirits, reluctance to go anywhere or do anything, headache, bearing-down pains, flatulency, nervousness, sleeplessness, leucorrhoea. These symptoms are but warnings that there is danger ahead, and unless heeded a life of suffering or a serious operation is the inevitable result. The never-failing remedy for all these symptoms is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Miss Kate McDonald, of Woodbridge, N. J., writes: "Dear Mrs. Pinkham: I think that a woman naturally dislikes to make her troubles known to the public, but restored health has meant so much to me that I cannot help from telling mine for the sake of other suffering women. I suffered agony with a uterine trouble and irregularities, which made me a physical wreck, and no one thought I would recover, but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has entirely cured me, and made me well and strong, and I feel it my duty to tell other suffering women what a splendid medicine it is." If you are ill, don't hesitate to get a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once, and write to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for special advice—it is free and always helpful.

Being announced as a comedy, of course the primary mission of "The Heir to the Hoohah" is to make people laugh, in the language of Bret Harte, "frequent and free." And that it fulfills this mission adequately anybody who has seen the play which comes to the Myers Grand, Tuesday, October 21, would testify with fervor. But aside from the robust humor of Paul Armstrong's rollicks, and cowboy boys, "The Heir to the Hoohah" offers congenial intellects which require logic and satire, construction and finance, and it offers in equal measure the means of satisfaction to those emotional souls who are not entirely happy unless their heart-strings are wrung at intervals and their lachrymose glands called into active operation. For there is pathos in plenty in the quaint story of a gold mine and a baby—the one the root of all the trouble, and the other, the means of its effacement. Half the charm of the performance of "The Heir to the Hoohah" lies in the cleverness with which it is portrayed, the exquisite measure of the actor to the role to which he is assigned. The late Kirkie La Shelle who produced this charming comedy had always a facile gift of picking a player to suit the part and in "The Heir to the Hoohah" he has achieved very nearly perfection along these lines. Guy Bates Post, Jane Peyton, Wilfred Lucas, Nora O'Brien, Ernest Lamson, Louise Rutler, Brinsley Shaw, Elliott Dexter, Ben Higgins and Colin Campbell—these are a few of the principals in the cast which is remarkable for its painstaking, spontaneous and exquisite excellence.

HIS ULTERIOR MOTIVE.
James J. Hill was addressing a multitude of Minnesota farmers at the Fillmore County Fair.

"Don't take up with every new notion you hear about," he said. "The ideas of governmental ownership of the railroads and municipal ownership of the trolley lines are not good ideas simply because they are new ones."

"In such ideas, as a matter of fact, there often lurk covert and selfish schemes for their promulgators' advancement. Often municipal ownership of an industry will not benefit the man proposing it."

"It is a case of a new idea's adoption for a hidden end. It is like the case of the small business man who wrote 'dictated' at the bottom of all his letters."

"You are in a very small way of business," said a friend. "You have no stenographer. You write all your own letters. Why, then, this 'dictated' at the bottom on each?"

"The fact is," said the small business man, "I'm a very poor speller. In case of mistakes, the 'dictated' lets me out."

DANGEROUS EMIGRATION.
The New York Tribune calls the project of the Salvation Army leaders to bring over a large floating population of England for emigration purposes "Dangerous Emigration." It has built up for itself a great bug bear out of nothing. Perhaps, some of the editors of that illustrious journal fail to remember that two thirds of the early settlers of Virginia and the American colonies were political prisoners, or worse than that felons taken from jails and shipped over by the ship load. In discussing the subject the paper says:

The Salvation Army has done so much work of unquestionable beneficence that we might hesitate to criticize unfavorably any of its plans for abating the evils of poverty, vice and crime. But General Booth's latest proposal, if we understand it aright, certainly seems to be of doubtful and worse than doubtful discretion. It is well meant, but when regarded without the glamour of philanthropic enthusiasm in which it was conceived and is viewed by its author it seems to be fraught with a grave menace of actually aggravating the evils it is intended to alleviate.

Briefly stated, the plan is to regard England as overpopulated and therefore to promote wholesale emigration of the intelligent, healthy, industrious and efficient elements of the population, leaving the ignorant, sick and helpless human derelicts behind. Now, of course, if there is to be any great emigration, those lands to which it is directed would prefer to have it of the character proposed. But what would be the effect upon England of thus taking away the brawn and brain of the people? "A bold peasantry, their country's pride, when once destroyed, can never be supplied," nor can they be supplied when removed by emigration. Such a process, carried to any considerable extent, sufficiently to relieve the alleged overcrowding of population—would be ruinous to the mother country. It would leave there those who need to be cared for without any one to care for them.

But, before all that, it is to be questioned whether even England, and certainly whether the whole United Kingdom, is suffering from overpopulation. True, England has a dense population, about 541 to the square mile, and it is rapidly increasing, at the rate of 12 to 15 per cent in ten years. In Ireland there are only 145 to the mile, however, and in Scotland only 125. A dense population is not possible in Scotland, but it surely should be in Ireland, and the density in England cannot be regarded as excessive. Belgium has a much more dense population, and her immigration is greater than her emigration. Holland has 418 to the mile, and makes no complaint of crowding. As for Germany, with 227, she deplores emigration, and France, with only 150, laments her underpopulation. Among our own states, Rhode Island has 497, Massachusetts 349, New Jersey 250 and New York 135 to the mile. The enormous average of England is due, of course, to her great cities. Rural England is not so densely populated as some of our states.

Many thoughtful Englishmen observe that of the entire area of England only three-fourths is under any form of cultivation. One-half of it is pasture or meadow land and only one fourth in grain or other food crops. Now, it might not be practicable to increase that one fourth to 60 per cent, as in Belgium, but it surely might be increased, with a corresponding increase of the self-feeding power of the kingdom. If some of the millions of acres of largely unproductive English land were made highly productive, the condition of the people would be improved, and many of the most competent observers in England believe they could be made profitably productive under a proper system. In other words, they hold that it is not overpopulation, but an unwise fiscal system, that is the cause of the trouble. Prudence should, at any rate, suggest careful consideration of this phase of the case before resort is made to the desperate expedient suggested by the Salvation Army leader.

PRESS COMMENT.

Wrong Kind of Fizz.
Sheboygan Journal: The Western Soda Fountain factory at Milwaukee has gone bankrupt. It turned out the wrong kind of stuff.

A Clincher If True.
El Paso Herald: Philadelphia baby carriage wars lamps after dark. It is a slow town where people are afraid of being run down by baby carriages.

Three Dollar Shoes To Soar.
Chicago Tribune: On account of the high price of leather you will pay more for your $3 shoes hereafter. Is this the beef trust's "answer" to the investigators?

Fame Trust Discredited.
Louisville Courier-Journal: Clearly a fame trust that canonizes the author of "Rocked in the Cradle of the Deep" and undertakes to consign Poe to oblivion discredits itself.

Unkind Invitation to Bob.
Oshkosh Northwestern: The Milwaukee Journal wants Governor La Follette to lead a tariff reform movement. And yet the Journal itself declares that "La Follette is no fool."

Reality Will Be Lacking.
Milwaukee Sentinel: Speaker Lenroot can go through the motions and use the words of that La Follette anti-corruption speech, but he never can make it appear as real as La Follette did.

Sort Of Rubbing It In.
Boston Transcript: Kansas should call off her enthusiasts who are planning for the World's fair at Topeka in 1911, to celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of her admission into the Union. Why remind us of our troubles?

Fair Reward For Thoughtful Act.
Madison Journal: The Jamesville girl who received $25 from the St. Paul road for saving a train should be careful not to spend it foolishly in buying automobiles; foreign travel or anything of that sort.

Terrible Collision Impends.
La Crosse Leader-Press: When Governor La Follette goes to the senate, the world will stand amazed at the spectacle of a perfectly immovable body, separatist tradition.

Few Luxuries Are Missing.
Chicago Record-Herald: The new steamship Amerika is ten stories high and has an elevator, a gymnasium and the highest priced restaurant in the world. It only had crowded, dirty street cars its patrons might cross the ocean without noticing that they had relinquished any of the advantages of city life.

Wasn't A Passenger Train.
Racine Journal: It is said that a Jamesville farmer girl received $25 and a vote of thanks for saving a train. Although rewards ought not to enter into a matter of saving lives and property, it might be said that a great many people believe that heroism of this sort should be more fittingly acknowledged.

Not Mere Matter of Winning.
Milwaukee Free Press: It is not necessary for Wisconsin to win games in order to have the sympathy, and the admiration, and the respect of its own state. All it has to do is to get into the game, and stay in it, as it did last Saturday, and as it has done since 1901. Now if Mr. O'Dea will either get his boat crew in shape, or give it up entirely, all will be forgiven.

An Approaching Joint Session.
Milwaukee Sentinel: As presiding officers of the two houses of the legislature it will be necessary for Lieut. Gov. Davidson and Speaker Lenroot to meet in joint session to receive the resignation of Governor La Follette. Before the meeting a stipulation should be filed providing that there shall be no reference to the recent political differences between Sweden and Norway.

Across the Stygian Stream.
Cleveland Leader: Nero is a nuisance. Every time anybody lights a bonfire he gets out that old fiddle with his and tries to make it work with a self-playing attachment.

Darius Greene is at work upon a new flying machine that is sure to go. Plato's class in friendship will graduate next Monday night.

Diogenes has a new lantern. It works with acetylene gas, and the old rubberneck can see both sides of the street at once with it.

At a meeting of the Congress of Mothers last night the Old Woman who Lived in a Shoe was elected president. Brigham Young and Solomon were chosen members of the advisory board.

Things Party Doesn't Sponsor.
Madison Journal: The Allegheny bank loot and the suicide of the cashier are an heritage of Quayism. "Bill" Andrews, the chief financial beneficiary was for years one of Quay's lieutenants; this Arizona statehood movement was worked up that he might be the new senator and that railroad bonds for the benefit of the ring might be marketed. This fresh scandal in the republican camp, although for years the party elsewhere has refused to be sponsor for rotten Pennsylvania politics. Roosevelt is of immense help and strength to the party in the midst of shameful proceedings of this sort. Every American knows and believes that he abhors men and methods of this brand and no one is more active to expose and discredit them.

EDGERTON CHURCH TO HAVE OPENING

Congregational Society Will Celebrate Completion of Remodeling Work.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Edgerton, Oct. 25.—In the latter part of November or early part of December an "opening" service will be held in the Edgerton Congregational church. It will celebrate the finishing of the remodeling work that is now being done on the edifice. The building has been raised five feet and a heavy stone foundation put beneath. By this change it has been made possible to fit up a Sunday school room and parlors in the basement. The work on these have proceeded rapidly. A heavy concrete under floor was laid and the hardwood floor will thus be kept dry and in good condition. The lathing of the walls is nearly completed and soon the plastering will commence. The ceilings are to be of steel and the walls will be finished with a steel border. The woodwork is to be a variety of cypress that comes from the Louisiana forests in which Edgerton people are interested. There are to be four rooms, a large Sunday school auditorium, two parlors and a kitchen. The latter has a cement floor and will be equipped with all the steam appliances that are common in modern hotel and restaurant kitchens. A new steam heating plant is also being installed, replacing the hot-air system that was formerly used. No radiators are in evidence, the pipes being distributed around the room and between the ceiling of the basement and the floor of the church proper.

Brick laying on the new storage building that is being erected by the American Cigar company will be finished today or Thursday. Two walls are already completed and the third and fourth well along. The work of laying the cement floor will be commenced very shortly and the placing of the rafters begun as soon as the material is received, there being a delay in the delivery. At present there is a force of a dozen men engaged on the building and it is expected to be ready for use within the next month. This structure is the only brick storage of the American company here and is fifty feet in width by three times that in length.

Devil's Currency.
The name "Devil's currency" was given by the New Englanders to the wampum which the Dutch settlers in Manhattan and New Netherlands adopted as their currency from the Indians.

RUNAWAY TEAM TIPS LUMBER WAGON OVER

Driver Injured—Wheels Passed Over His Chest, Though He Was Not Rendered Unconscious.

While driving a lumber wagon on South River street near the Dodge street crossing, this morning shortly before ten o'clock, Fred Wolfgram narrowly escaped very serious injury. A runaway team, the property of a Mr. Summers, dashed into the heavier vehicle, tipping it and throwing Wolfgram to the ground. The wheel of the wagon drawn by the runaways passed over his chest and one leg was wrenched. At first the injury of his chest was not considered serious, he being able to walk and replace the disarranged harness on his own animal, but the increasing pain made it necessary for him to visit a physician later.

WERE WEDDED AT THE COURT HOUSE

Jacob Schmidz of Beloit and Miss Mary Welch of Roscoe Made Happy by Judge Earle.

Jacob Schmidz of Beloit and Miss Mary C. Welch of Roscoe, Ill., appeared at the courthouse shortly after two o'clock this afternoon and after filing application for a marriage license, secured from Judge Sale a permit to wed at once. This done, Justice Jesse Earle was summoned to the office of County Clerk Howard Lee, where, with the latter, his deputy, Miss Lee, and County Treasurer Oliver Smith, the ceremony was performed. It was all done so quickly that few of the other officers in the building knew what was in progress and the young couple escaped without the usual "send-off" given those who embark on the voyage of wedded happiness from that particular port. Mr. and Mrs. Schmidz took the next interurban, presumably for Beloit.

E. J. HAUMERSON WILL PLAY WITH UNIVERSITY ALUMNI

Is to Go in Against Varsity Squad at Old Position in Line—Roy Chamberlain Also.

E. J. Haumerson of the Jamesville high school faculty is to play against the Wisconsin University football team with the Wisconsin Alumni eleven at Camp Randall Saturday. Mr. Haumerson served in the line of the cardinal eleven during three successful seasons and was a member of the championship team of 1902. Among others who are to play are: Emil Skow, center; Holstein, Arnie Lerum, and perhaps Schreiber for guard; Curtis for one tackle, and Abbott and Juneau for ends. Fogg will play quarterback and Larson will play one half-back position. Driver is in Madison and will be seen in action, making Eddie Cochems the most prominent of the missing men. In addition to these there will be Bill Hazzard, Gregg, Holt, King, and others, while Andy O'Dea, who has quite a reputation as a kicker, may get into the game. Roy Chamberlain of this city is also expected in the Capital City for the game.

The driest spot in the world is Death Valley, with less than five inches of rain annually.

Little Sunstroke in Spain.
A Spanish journalist declares that sunstroke is almost unknown in his country, and that it occurs only in northern regions, where the people do not know how to take care of themselves in hot weather.

WITH RAIN COAT AND IN PAJAMAS

respect for the president of the United States; our confidence in the courage, unsectional patriotism and generous impulses of Theodore Roosevelt, and in appreciation of your many kindnesses to confederate veterans, and especially for the unsought honor recently conferred upon the members of the camp.

"We present this, too, sir, because we believe that you come nearer standing for the ideals that have inspired our lives than any president that we have had since the war. Had we been born north of Mason and Dixon's line, Mr. President, many of us in the war between the states might have followed the flag of our fathers, the Stars and Stripes, and we are sure that had you been born twenty years earlier and in Georgia, where you would have been born, that you would have been a gallant leader of a brigade under Forest or Stuart."

American A Pretty Good Fellow.
The president spoke briefly, confining himself almost entirely to praise of Alabama and Alabamians. Thence he was escorted to the state fair grounds, where he faced an enormous assemblage. In concluding his speech he said:

"During the time that I have been president I have gone across the country from the Atlantic to the Pacific and from the Canadian border down to the gulf. I have met our people by the hundreds of thousands, and the thing that has impressed me most in the audiences that I have addressed has been the essential likeness of our people.

"The differences are slight and superficial. The likenesses are fundamental and I think that the average American is a pretty good fellow and that all that is necessary is that he should meet the other average American in order to get on all right with him, and that applies, gentlemen, not only as between those who live in one locality and those who live in another but as between those who earn their livelihood in one way and those who earn it in another; whether wage-worker or capitalist, whether farmer or townsman, whether we live east or west, north or south, in the great fundamentals which most underlie all good citizenship, our people are alike."

At Montgomery, President Roosevelt devoted his time to a discussion of the effect which the building of the Panama canal will have in upbuilding of the cotton industry and the necessity for the furtherance of southern interests and of protecting American commerce in the orient. He also appealed for good, common, everyday citizenship.

RIGHT THINKING.

Mrs. John Vance Cheney's cult of right thinking is immensely popular in New York. She has a creed and gospels which are cherished by her followers. Some gleanings from her lectures are as follows:

Personal magnetism is spirit speaking through the body.

We invite our ills and are royal hosts when they arrive.

Our life work is overcoming the world, the flesh and the self.

Health is the morality of the body.

Good will is better than pepsin tablets to aid digestion.

The kernel of nervousness is selfishness.

There is no fate against us but the fate of our weak choice.

Stop looking for limitations.

Your opinion of the motive of another is flashlight on your own character.

We must grant to all people the liberty that we would have for ourselves, else we are in bondage in trying to shape them to our viewpoint.

Renounce prejudice; every prejudice is a limitation.

Truth is not yours until it takes possession of you.

QUIET THOUGHTS.

A man who loves property too well to love his fellow men, will, if he lives long enough, hate his fellow men and himself, too. So where is the gain?

It is a long way from exploitation to fraternity, but there are those who have gone over the entire distance, and who are sure that there is a way to make the journey.

Poets may be madmen, as the "practical folk" think them; but better be mad, and have sweet dreams, and be able to tell them to others, than to carry around those stones which "practical folk" call their hearts.

Those who are ever suspicious of others will never know themselves aright. Hate is a mist before the eyes, that, never lifting, obscures all our vision.—W. F. B. in the magazine "To-morrow."

BY THE GENTLE PHILOSOPHER.

Keep telling a boy that he will never amount to anything, and he generally won't.

The best and rarest moral bracer in the world is the knowledge that some one has faith in you.

The idea of self-respect is rather amusing to those who are well acquainted with themselves.

The man who makes hay while the sun shines is in a position to lend money to the fellow who writes poetry about it.

Many a life is unpleasant because of a failure to diagnose biliousness.

No man has a right to shorten his life by making it excessively happy in its brevity.

The life of a man is less than a span, for it falls into the River of Death at the end.

When we marry, life takes on a great purchase; we may win out or fall under the mortgage.

BUB'S OPINION

wasn't far from being all right. He was 2 years old and lisped, but had a mind of his own. The dentist jokingly said, "Bub, let me make you a set of teeth." Bub shook his head dubiously and said, "I'd raver have the kind that Dad makes."

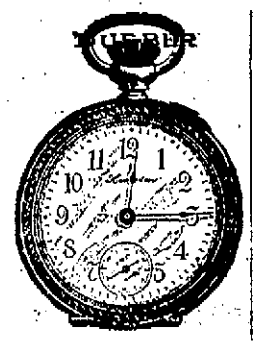

Wouldn't you agree with him? Aren't your own teeth worth more than any set of false ones?

Why then are you letting such God-given servants simply go to pieces from pure neglect on your part.

A few dollars each year spent in repairing your grinders will insure you their possession for years of good service.

While Dr. Richards makes beautiful sets of teeth, which do great work for people who have lost their natural grinders—

Yet, like a cork leg, they are only a substitute and by no means as good as "Dad" makes.

IN PROCEEDINGS FOR RIGHT-OF-WAY

Brought by Rock Co. Telephone Company, Arguments Were Entertained by Commissioners Today.

Arguments of attorneys representing the owners of property abutting on the alley which forms the first short-cut from Milwaukee street to Court on the east side of the Milwaukee street bridge, this morning resumed their arguments before the commissioners appointed to determine damages in the condemnation proceedings brought by the Rock County Telephone Co. The latter concern seeks to maintain a right-of-way for its wires and conduits through the said thoroughfare and certain of the property-holders demand reimbursement for the privilege. The commissioners are: James Fifield, Wilbur Carle, and H. L. McNamara.

The King's Daughters of the Baptist church will meet in the church parlors Thursday at 2 o'clock. Picnic supper will be served at 5 o'clock.

GENERAL RANDALL GUEST OF HONOR

WILL BE TENDERED COMPLIMENTARY DINNER-TRIS EVENING.

HIS OLD FRIENDS THE HOSTS

Dinner Will Be Served in the Ordinarly of the Hotel Myers at Six-Thirty.

This evening in the ordinary of the Myers hotel General George M. Randall will be the guest of honor at an informal dinner tendered him by forty of his old friends and former townsmen. Covers will be laid for forty although perhaps a few more may be present. Dinner will be served at six-thirty and an especially prepared menu has been arranged. Hon. Victor P. Richardson will preside as master of ceremonies and will act as toastmaster at the post-prandial. The gentlemen in arranging for the event have endeavored to confine the guests to personal friends of General Randall and men who knew him when he made his home in Janesville. Among those who will be present are: F. F. Stevens, W. G. Wheeler, C. L. Fifield, J. M. Bostwick, S. B. Smith, L. B. Carle, Richard Valentine, Dr. Q. O. Sutherland, O. F. Nowlan, Horace McElroy, M. G. Jettis, Geo. Sutherland, R. M. Bostwick, Jr., Ed. F. Carpenter, William Bladon, R. J. Richardson, John M. Whitehead, F. B. Cook, Pliny Norcross, C. S. Jackson, B. P. Dunwiddie, W. B. Conrad, Geo. McKee, Edward R. Ruger, A. F. Hall, P. J. Mount, E. D. McGowan, L. L. Colvin, William Ruger, V. E. Richardson, O. H. Fethers, John G. Rexford, A. H. Barrington, J. H. Clemons, Ed. Fifield, Col. W. B. Britton, Hamilton Richardson.

BRAVE FRONT BUT RICE TOLD STORY

One of Life's Little Comedies, Ever Recurring and Always Appreciated, Enacted at Grand Hotel.

As a young woman, appearing quite radiant in spite of transparent attempt to look unconcerned, and a young man whose indifferent air was more successfully maintained, swept into the Grand Hotel with their luggage this morning a few hundred kernels of rice bounced in a merry tattoo on the tile mosaics, coming to rest at last in a small white trail leading from the doorway to the clerk's desk. Sombre faces along the side walls suddenly became wreathed in bland, appreciative smiles. Only the clerk preserved a sober, dignified demeanor. The groom signed for Mr. and Mrs. Longfield, but left the place blank in the "where from" column. Conjecture filled in the space with the word—Madison. When, later on, one of the hotel attendants swept the floor he carefully avoided the rice trail in deference to the unvoiced but unanimous sentiment of those who sat in the lobby.

BADGER STATE CO. IS TO EQUIP WARSHIPS

"Montana" and "North Carolina" with Combination Punches and Shears—Other Orders.

Two of "Uncle Sam's" warships will soon be using Janesville machinery as a part of their equipment. Combination punches and shears for the cruisers "Montana" and "North Carolina" have recently been ordered of the Badger State Machine Co. An order has also been received by the same firm, making five in all from the U. S. government within three weeks, for wood-work machinery to be installed in the great shipyards at San Francisco, Cal.

ORANGE TREE THAT IS "SIMPLY LOADED"

Nineteen Pieces of Fruit on Tree Belonging to Frank H. Baack—Is at the Hot House.

Frank H. Baack and family are planning now upon enjoying home grown oranges during the holidays. Mr. Baack has a small tree at the Amerpohl hot house on south Main street, loaded with green fruit—nineteen in all—that will be ripe about Christmas time. The tree was put into Mr. Amerpohl's care last winter and he has succeeded in weighing down every branch of the plant with two or more full sized oranges. The fruit has now commenced to turn from the deep green to a shade of mingled yellow and green. Mr. Amerpohl has a lemon tree that belongs to himself on which is being borne an immense lemon. It is thirty inches in circumference and will be ripe about the time that the oranges reach maturity. In two beds of chrysanthemums, containing many varieties, Mr. Amerpohl estimated this morning that there were 2,500 buds.

The hearing was set for Monday morning next at ten o'clock.

ANNUAL PIPE DREAM OF TURKEY FAMINE

Old, Old Story of Scarcity Is Again Being Sprung Upon Public, Says Monroe Times.

Approach of Thanksgiving, says the Monroe Evening Times, brings forth the story of a scarcity of turkeys, report being that the supply of birds in Wisconsin is unusually small this year and that prices may soar out of sight. Every year with the approach of Thanksgiving and again at Christmas time there is a story that turkeys are scarce and that farmers have taken no interest in raising the birds. In the past, however, there has always been a plentiful supply to meet the local demand and this year will probably be no exception. The effect that a disease has appeared among the turkeys which is depleting the already small supply.

SEVERE BEATING BY A BRUTAL HUSBAND

Janesville Woman Is Whipped Because She Objected to Her Husband's Love Affairs.

Because she found a love letter from a Chicago woman in her husband's pocket and went to her room to cry over losing his love, a Janesville woman is today nursing a broken heart and sundry bruises administered by her brutal husband. Also her young son has cause to remember that his father wields a strong hand. It was Sunday afternoon last when the lady found evidence of her husband's unfaithfulness. She sat in her bedroom to cry over the discovery, when her lord and master approached and after severely reproaching her for crying proceeded to whip her. Whether with a club or genuine rawhide, such as was used in ante bellum days, is not known, but from the bruises left on her delicate skin, Simon Legree of Uncle Tom's Cabin fame could not have been more brutal. Seeing his mother's plight, the lady's son started for a neighbor's for aid, but was caught and also treated to a severe whipping by the brutal father and husband. "That man ought to be most severely punished," said the physician called to attend the lady. "She was black and blue with huge welts on her body. That man calls himself a gentleman and goes among gentlemen. He ought to be exposed." It is probable, however, for the sake of the couple's two children, nothing will be done, but neighbors who have learned the story promise vengeance if he lays violent hands on his wife again.

WERE MARRIED THIS AFTERNOON AT FOUR

Miss Maude Murdock Became the Bride of James McGiffin, at the Home of Her Parents.

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hiram D. Murdock in the La Vista flats, 50 South Main street, a pretty wedding occurred this afternoon at four o'clock. Their daughter, Miss Maude Murdock, was united in marriage to Mr. James I. McGiffin, Rev. R. C. Denison pronouncing the ceremony, which was performed under an arch of autumn foliage and chrysanthemums banked by ferns. The room was lighted by specially arranged electric globes and the effect was most charming. The bride wore a gown of Alice blue silk chiffon over white and carried white bride's roses. A wedding dinner is to be served in the dining-room, which has been beautifully decorated in pink. Many handsome gifts were received, among which was a spray of fresh orange blossoms sent from California by Miss Margaret McGiffin, a sister of the groom. Mr. and Mrs. McGiffin are to go on a wedding-trip of a week's duration, but are carefully guarding the secret of the time of their departure and their destination, planning to take a portion of their tour in an auto. Upon their return they will take up their residence with Mrs. McGiffin's parents in the La Vista flats. About fifty friends and relatives of the contracting parties were present at the wedding. Among those from out of the city were Mr. and Mrs. Ira Howard, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ask, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wyman, Mrs. Jane Kelly, Mr. and Mrs. George McGiffin, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Birkemeyer and Miss Myrtle Matpress, of Edgerton; Mr. and Mrs. James Conroy of Shoreline; Mrs. Jennie Knolton and son, Miss Florence Faust and Miss Hazel Tobin, of Rockford, and Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Childs of Hanover.

MUSICIAN WANDERED INTO HOTEL ELEVATOR SHAFT

Henry Vomwald Opened the Wrong Door at the Myers Last Night and Sustained Bad Fall.
Henry Vomwald of Baraboo, a musician identified with the Knoff & Hatch orchestra, opened by mistake the rear door giving access to the Hotel Myers elevator last night and taking a step forward fell down the shaft to the basement floor. The man was badly shaken up and bruised but no bones were fractured and he insisted on securing a hack and returning to Assembly hall, where the orchestra was furnishing music for a dance.

RACE FOR NEW JUDICIAL SEAT

IN BELOIT LIKELY TO BE LIVELY ONE.

SEVERAL JANESVILLE SONS

Are Already Mentioned for the Honor, and Other Towns in County May Furnish Candidates.

After hearing the arguments of the Beloit delegation relative to the salary of the officers for the municipal court which is to be established in the Line City, the committee appointed by the county board to make recommendations regarding this important phase of the project, unanimously agreed to advise the supervisors to fix the salary of judge at $1,500 a year; that of clerk at $400; and that of stenographer at the rate of fifty cents an hour but not less than $1.50 for any one day or part of a day which he or she should serve. The visitors argued for a $2,000 salary, but went away well satisfied with the decision of the committee.

Office Will Be Elective
Despite the perfunctory eloquence in which Janesville by inference was done much injustice by the enthusiastic Beloiters, one could not but admire the spirit of the town which could marshal so imposing and active a delegation to coax and cajole the county fathers. With the court assured and the salary practically settled upon, though the supervisors must vote on the matter at the meeting Nov. 24, candidates are already springing up in all parts of the county. For the office is elective and the man who gets it will have to obtain the majority vote of the whole county.

CATARRH ANNOYING-DANGEROUS

Catarrh is usually regarded as nothing more serious than a bad cold or slight inflammation of the inner skin and tissues of the head and throat, when it is, in fact, not only a vexatious and troublesome disease, but a complicated and dangerous one. It is true that Catarrh usually begins with a cold in the head, but when the poisons, which are thrown off through the secretions, find their way into the blood, it becomes a constitutional trouble that affects all parts of the body. It has more annoying and disgusting symptoms than any other disease. There is a sickening and offensive discharge from the nostrils, a constant buzzing noise in the ears, headaches and pains in the eyes are frequent, while filthy, tenacious matter drops back into the throat requiring continual hawking and spitting, and in certain stages of the disease the breath has an odor that is very offensive. Catarrh is worse in Winter, because the cold weather closes the pores and glands, and the poisons and unhealthy vapors which should pass off that way are thrown back on the tender linings and tissues, causing the inflammation which starts the unhealthy secretions to be absorbed by the blood. When the blood becomes diseased with this catarrhal matter all kinds of complications may be looked for. As the blood circulates through the body the foul matter finds its way into the stomach, ruining the digestion and producing chronic Dyspepsia, or Catarrh of the stomach. It also affects the kidneys, bladder and other members of the urinary system, and the patient feels despondent and half sick all the time. But worst of all, if the trouble is not checked the lungs become diseased from the constant passage of poisoned blood through them, and Catarrh terminates in Consumption, the most fatal of all diseases. You cannot get rid of Catarrh by treating it with sprays, washes, inhalations, etc., because they only reach the membranes and tissues, while the real cause of the trouble is in the blood. These relieve the annoying symptoms for a time, but the poison is all the while getting a stronger hold on the system and when they are left off will manifest itself in worse form than before. S. S. S. is the greatest of all blood purifiers, and when it has cleansed the blood, this pure, rich stream circulates through the body, carrying healthful properties to the diseased parts. Then the inflamed membranes and tissues begin to heal, the discharges cease, the general condition of the system is strengthened, every one of the annoying and disgusting symptoms pass away, and the patient is left in perfect health. S. S. S. is the best remedy for Catarrh. It goes right into the blood and removes all effete matter and catarrhal poison and cures the disease permanently, and at the same time builds up the entire system by its fine tonic effect. S. S. S. is a purely vegetable remedy—non-injurious to the system and a certain, reliable cure for Catarrh. Catarrh sufferers will find our free consulting department helpful in advising local treatment to be used with S. S. S.

ORDER JOINT KEEPERS TO CLOSE UP SALOONS

Brewers Take Drastic Action Following Gov. Hoch's Determined Stand to Enforce the Law.

Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 25.—The brewers have ordered joint keepers in Kansas City, Kas., and the suburbs of Argentine, Armourdale and Rosedale to close and most of the 200 saloons in those places respected the order.
What the state and county officials have not done in years, the brewers themselves have accomplished within twenty-four hours. Most of the joints are owned by the brewers. The others can secure no more beer and their supply is almost exhausted. The city officials who levied monthly fines upon the joints had said that they were powerless to close them, and at the instigation of Gov. Hoch, W. H. McManish was appointed assistant attorney-general of Wyandotte county to see that the places stopped doing business.
"So long as the joints are closed," said Mr. McManish, "there will be nothing for me to do. I am here to see that they stay closed."

Some Armourdale "women" have joined the campaign to close the joints in Kansas City. Little groups of them were seen on the street corners discussing the situation and planning what they would do if any joints are found open. One woman had a hammer with her and declared if she found liquor being sold in any joint she would break the glass and fixtures.
The front doors of all the twenty-one joints in Argentine were locked, but a few were doing a back-door business. Two, over which there are gambling houses, are said to have done a brisk stairway business.
A few of the Rosedale joints are doing a back-door business. Those who are selling on the sly may have to close on account of lack of supplies.

GIRL DRINKS ACID WHEN JILTED

Prefers Death to Not Marrying Man She Loved.

South Bend, Ind., Oct. 25.—Because Roy Ballard would not marry her, Mary Gell, aged 17, drank carbolic acid and died. The girl was pretty and always numbered her suitors by the dozen. At the age of 13 she was wooed and won by Harry Gell, from whom she was divorced. About four weeks ago she met Ballard and at once became infatuated with him. Calling him to her boarding house she pleaded with him to make her happy by marrying her. Ballard protested that he could not support a wife. The interview ended, the young woman went into an adjoining room and a few moments later Ballard heard the report of a popping cork. Suspecting an attempt at suicide, Ballard quickly secured a physician. At the hospital it was discovered she had written letters to her mother and one to Ballard. The young woman asked her mother to take her child and teach it to forget its mother.

GALE RAZES COCONUT TREES

Sweeps Portion of Island of Guam and Destroys Buildings.

San Francisco, Oct. 25.—A severe typhoon prevailed from the 26th to the 29th of last month in the vicinity of Guam. No damage was done on Guam Island, but on Sept. 4 a Japanese schooner arrived in the port of Apra dismantled and much damaged, reporting that in the neighborhood of Salpan the gale had been particularly severe. While the year's crop of copra and other products had already been gathered, many coconut trees, which are the main dependence of the island, were razed. The government house, storehouse, churches and many native dwellings are in ruins.

DRESSMAKER HEIR TO $815,000

Former Chicago Woman Shares in Estate of Wealthy Uncle.

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 25.—Mrs. S. E. Bowdell, a dressmaker, who came to Los Angeles three years ago from Chicago, has fallen heir to an estate in Colorado, worth at least $815,000. Mrs. Bowdell's uncle, L. Hilton, who died recently in Colorado, left an estate valued at $25,000,000, and Mrs. Bowdell will receive, with other relatives, portions of the estate. Hilton made his fortune in mines.

Three Wounded in Hold-Up

Ladysmith, Wis., Oct. 25.—Five men attempted to hold up Saloon-keeper McLean, when three Americans rushed to his assistance. In the shooting which followed George Potter, an American, one Austrian and McLean were wounded. None will die.

American to See Castro

Caracas, Oct. 25.—The government at Washington has commissioned the American minister, Mr. Russell, to endeavor to arrange the Franco-Venezuelan diplomatic incident. Mr. Russell went to Los Teques to have an interview with President Castro.

Fillmore's Home is Burned

Buffalo, N. Y., Oct. 25.—In the $30,000 fire which threatened to wipe out East Aurora, N. Y., nineteen miles east of Buffalo, a house once the home of President Fillmore was burned. The Warner Fillmore was destroyed and other buildings damaged.

Alleged Daughter is Hypnotized

New York, Oct. 25.—William H. Anstead, a wealthy publisher, accused Mrs. Jessie M. Graeffe of keeping his 15-year-old daughter away from him by hypnotism. She has been missing since Oct. 13.

Kipp Smith of Seatonville, Ill., who shot and killed Beiden Allen last January, has been found guilty of murder and given a verdict of eighteen years in the penitentiary.

CAPTAIN OUT OF HIS COURSE

Rustic Had His Own Idea About "Plowing the Seas."

Daniel Maloney, the brave aeronaut who met his death at Santa Clara through the overturning of his aeroplane, has never any fear of aerial accidents.
Maloney put his trust in proficiency. Before each ascension he studied every detail of the air; he tried every smallest mechanism. The young man always imputed aerial accidents to aerial ignorance.

"The average aeronaut," he said one day, "is about as fit to run a flying machine as the Cecilium farmer who crossed with Capt. Lampford was to sail a ship."

"This farmer," the second day out, began to dislike the notion. His appetite disappeared, he had a slight headache, and he was pale and languid.

"As he leaned over the rail disconsolately watching with a slight shudder the rise and fall of the horizon, Capt. Lampford appeared."

"Look here, Capt. Lampford," said the farmer, "you don't understand your business."

"The captain smiled. He was willing to humor this poor, seashore rustic."

"I don't understand my business, eh?" he said. "What is the trouble with me?"

"Why, blame it all," said the farmer, "you ought to keep in the furrows."

Politeness a Valuable Asset.

The career of Prof. George A. Witzhoff, the eminent New York multi-millionaire, who married fifty wives in seven years and made an average profit of $475,200 on each venture, affords lessons that may be well taken to heart by the youth of America. Starting life as a poor boy, with few advantages of education or influence, he rose by his own untiring efforts to the top of his chosen profession. Seven years ago, when he courted and won his first wife, he was a blundering amateur, like any other callow young man who leads the fair object of his adoration to the sacrificial altar. Today he is the world's foremost authority on the noble science of wooing the fair. The lesson that lies in his success for the ambitious young men of America is the fact that politeness is profitable. With no other stock in trade Witzhoff fought his way to the first rank in the ancient art of matrimony. Therefore, it is a fair conclusion that courtesy would be of great value in any other trade. A polite policeman, grafter, musician, or delicatessen dealer should have the same advantage over an impolite one that the doctor enjoyed over his rivals.—Baltimore Herald.

Judith of the Plains

By MARIE MANNING.
Author of "Lord Allingham, Bankrupt"

Copyright, 1905, by Harper & Brothers

"Now, Mrs. Rodney, nee Tumlin, was but human, and her cup of happiness as the wife of a squaw man was not the brimming beaker she had anticipated. The expulsion of her predecessor at such a time to make room for her own home coming was, it seemed, open to criticism. "The neighborhood" (it included perhaps five families living in a radius of as many hundred miles) felt that the Tumlins had established a bad precedent. A squaw man driving out a brown wife to make room for a white is not a heroic figure. It had been done before, but it would not lead down well in the traditions of the settling of this great country. Tresspass of law and order, with their swift, red headed reckoning, was but a move of the great game of colonization, but to shove out a brown woman for a white was a mean move. Few stopped at the Rodney's ranch, though it marked the first break in the journey from town to the gold mining country. Rodney had fallen from his estate as a pioneer; his political opinions were unsought in the conclave that sat and spat at the stove when business brought them to the joint saloon and postoffice. The women dealt with the question more openly, scoring feminine subtlety at this pass as inadequate ammunition. When they met Mrs. Rodney they pulled aside their skirts and glared. This outrage against woman it was woman's work to settle.

The Tumlin family did not remain long enough in the Black Hills country to witness Sally's failure as the wife of a pioneer. The restlessness of the "settler," if the paradox be permissible, was in the marrow of their bones. The makeshifts of the wagon, the adventures of the road, were the only home they craved. The spring after Sally's marriage they set forth for California, the year following for New Mexico, and still sighed for new worlds to visit.

Rodney's squaw wife was taken in by some neighbors, good folk who were conversant with all phases of the romance. They stood by her in her hour of trial and afterward continued to keep her as a servant. Her son Jim grew up with their own children. When he was four years of age his mother, Singing Stream, died, and Sally persuaded her husband to take young Jim into their own home, partly as a sop to neighborly criticism, partly as a savior to her own conscience. Sally had children of her own and looked at things differently now from the time when she fought the squaw for Rodney's favor.

Jim's foster parents were, in truth, glad to part with him. From his earliest babyhood he had been known as a "lamb of Satan." He was an Ishmael by every instinct of his being. And Mrs. Warren Rodney, nee Tumlin, felt that in dealing with him in her capacity of stepmother she daily expiated any offense that she might have done to his mother.

Sally grew slatternly with increasing maturity. She spent her time in a rocking chair, dipping snuff—a consolation imported from her former home—and lamenting the bad marriage she had made. Rodney ascribed his ill fortune to unjust neighborly criticism. He farmed a little, he raised a little stock, and he drank a great deal of whisky. Sally hated the Black Hills country. She felt that it knew too much about her. The neighborly inquisition had fallen like a blight on the family fortunes. A vague migratory impulse was on her. She wanted to go somewhere and begin all over again. By dint of persistent nagging she persuaded her husband to move to Wyoming, then in the golden age of the cattle industry.

Judith was ten years old when her father, his wife and their children moved from Dakota—they were not so particular about North and South Dakota in those days—to take up a claim on Sweetwater, Wyoming. Judith gave scant promise of the beauty that in later life became at once her flower and her misfortune, that which was as likely to bring wretchedness as happiness. In Wyoming she was destined to find an old friend, Mrs. Atkins, who, as the bride of the young lieutenant, had been present at the marriage of Sally Tumlin and Warren Rodney and who had always felt a wholly unreasonable sense of guilt at witnessing the ceremony and contributing a lace handkerchief to the bride. Her husband, now Major Atkins, was stationed at Fort Washakie, Wyoming. Mrs. Atkins happening again on the Rodney family and her husband having increased and multiplied his army pay many times over by a successful venture in cattle, the scheme of Judith's convent education was put through by the major's wife, who had kept her New England conscience, the discomforts of frontier posts notwithstanding.

So Judith went to the nuns to school, and stayed with them till she was eighteen. Mrs. Atkins would have adopted her then, but Judith by this time knew her family history in all its sordid ramifications and felt that duty called her to her brother, who had not improved his unfortunate start in life, though his stepmother did not spoil him for the staying of the rod.

CHAPTER VII.

CHUGG, comforted with liquors and stayed with a head plaster, presented himself at the Dax ranch just twenty-four hours after he was due. His men combined vagueness with hostility, and he harnessed up the stage that Peter Hamilton had driven over the day before, when his prospective passengers were looking, with a graphic pantomimic representation of "take it or leave it." Under the circumstances Miss Carmichael and the fat lady consented to be passengers with much the same feeling of finality that one might have on embarking for the planet Mars in an airship.

"Here's some bread and meat and a bottle of cold coffee, if you live to need it," was Mrs. Dax's grim prognostication of accident. Loander, being of an emotional nature, could scarce restrain his tears—the advent of the travelers had created a welcome variation in the monotony of his dutiful routine—he felt all the agitation of parting with lifelong friends. Mary Carmichael and Judith promised to write—they had found a great deal to say to each other the preceding evening.

Chugg, cracked his whip ominously, and the travelers got inside, not daring to trust themselves to the box.

The journey with Chugg was but a repetition of that first day's staging—the sagebrush was scarcer, the mountains seemed as far off as ever, and the outlook was, if possible, more desolate. The entry in Miss Carmichael's diary, inscribed in malformed characters as the stage jolted over ruts and gullies, reads: "I do not mind telling you, in strictest confidence, 'Dere Diary'—as the little boy called you—that when I so lightly severed my connection with civilization I had no idea to what an extent I was going in for the prairie primal. How on earth does a woman who can write a letter like Mrs. Yellett stand it? And where on the map of North America is Lost Trail?"

The fat lady had never relaxed her gaze from Chugg's back since the stage had started. She peered at that broad expanse of flannel shirt through the tiny round window, like a careful sailing master sweeping the horizon for possible storm clouds. At every portion of the road presenting a steep decline she would prod Chugg in the back with the handle of her ample umbrella and demand that he let her out, as she preferred walking.

"Do you think you are a plenicking, that you are plenicking round these yere solitudes?" And he cracked his whip and adjured his team with cabalistic imprecations.

"Did you notice if Mrs. Dix got him any cold coffee, same as she did us?" anxiously inquired the fat lady from her lookout.

Mary hadn't noticed.

"He's drinking something out of a brown bottle; seems to relish it a heap more'n he would cold coffee," reported the watch. "Hi, there! Hi, Mr. Chugg!" "Um-um-um!" he granted savagely, applying a watery eye to the round window.

"Nothing," answered the fat lady, quite satisfied at having her worst fears confirmed.

Chugg returned to his driving as one not above the weakness of seeing and hearing things.

"Tain't coffee."

"Could you smell it?" questioned Mary anxiously.

"You never can tell that way when they are plumb pickled in it, like him."

"Then how did you know it wasn't coffee?"

"His eyes had fresh watered."

Mary collapsed under this expert testimony. "What are we going to do about it?"

"Appeal to him as a gentleman," said the fat lady, not without dramatic intonation.

"You appeal," counseled Mary. "I saw him look at you admiringly when you were walking down that steep grade."

"Is that so?" said the fat lady, with a conspicuous lack of incredulity. And she put her hand involuntarily to her frizzes.

This time she did not trust to the umbrella handle as a medium of communication between the stage driver and herself. Putting her hand through the porthole, she grasped Chugg's arm—the bottle arm—with no uncertain grip.

"Why, Mr. Chugg, this yere place is getting to be a regular summer resort. Think of two ladies, trusting themselves to your protection and traveling out over this great lonesome desert."

Chugg's mind, still submerged in local, lethe waters, grappled in silence with the problem of the feminine invasion, and then he muttered to himself rather than to the fat lady: "Nowhere's safe from 'em. Women and house flies is universally prevailing."

The fat lady dropped her arm as if it had been a brand. "He's no gentleman."

All that day they toiled over sand and sagebrush. The sun hung like a molten disk, paling the blue of the sky, the grasshoppers kept up their shrill chirping, and the loneliness of that sun scorched waste became a tangible thing.

At sundown they came to the road ranch of Johnnie Dax, bearing Loander's compliments as a secret dispatch.

This Mr. Dax was almost an exact replica of the other, even to the apologetic crook in the knees and a certain furtive way of glancing over the shoulder as if anticipating missiles.

"Pshaw now, ladies! Why didn't you let me know that you was coming, and I'd have tidied up the place and organized a few dried apple pies."

"Where's your wife?" sternly demanded the fat lady.

"Oh, I presume she's dancin' a whole lot over to Ervay. She picked her bull down in a gripsack and lit out of here two days ago, platin' that way. A locomotive couldn't stop her none if she got a chance to go cycloning round a dance."

After supper when the fat lady was so busy talking "goo-goo" language to the baby as to be oblivious of everything else Mary Carmichael took the opportunity to ask Johnnie if he knew anything about Lost Trail. The name of her destination had come to sound unpleasantly ominous in the ears of the tired young traveler, and she feared that her inquiry did not sound as casual as she tried to have it. Nor was Johnnie's candid reply reassuring.

"It's a plizen mean country, from all I ever heard tell. The citizens tharof consists mainly of coyotes and mountain lions, with a few rattlers thrown in just to make things neighborly. This yere place," waving his hand toward the arid wastes which night was making more desolate—"is a summer resort, with modern improvements, compared to it."

Mary serewed her courage to a still more desperate point and inquired if Mr. Dax knew a family named Yellett living in Lost Trail.

"Never heard of no family living there excepting the bluff at family life maintained by the wild beasts before referred to. See here, miss, I ain't makin' no play to inquire into your affairs, but you ain't thinkin' o' visitin' Lost Trail, be you?"

"Perhaps," said Mary faintly, and then she, too, talked "goo-goo" to the baby.

All that long and never to be forgotten night the stage lurched through the darkness with Mary Carmichael the solitary passenger. The fat lady had warned Johnnie Dax that he was on no account to replenish Chugg's flask if he had the wherewithal for replenishment on the premises. Johnnie, hurt to the quick by the unjust suspicion that he could fail so signally in his duty to a lady, not only refused to replenish the flask, but threatened Chugg with a conditional vengeance in the event of accident befalling the stage. It was with a partially sobered and much threatened stage driver, therefore, that Mary continued her journey after the supper at Johnnie Dax's, but the knowledge of it brought scant reassurance, and it is doubtful if the red stage ever harbored any one more wakeful than the pale, tired girl who watched all the changes from dark to dawn at the stage window.

The hoofs of the horses beat the night away as regularly as the ticking of a clock. It grew darker as the night wore on and sometimes a coyote would yelp from the fringe of willows that bordered a creek in a way that made Mary recall tales of hauntings. And once, when the first pale streak of dawn trembled in the east and the mountains looked like jagged rocks heaved against the sky and in danger of toppling, the whole dread scene brought before her one of Vedder's pictures that hung in the shabby old library at home.

They breakfasted somewhere and Chugg put fresh horses to the stage. She knew this from their difference of color; the horses that they had left the second Dax ranch had been white, and these that now toiled over the sand and desolation were apparently brown. She could not be certain that they were brown, or that they were toiling over the sand and desolation, or that her name was Mary Carmichael, or indeed of anything. Four days in the trail and what seemed like four centuries in the stage eliminated any certainty as to anything. She could only sit huddled in a heap and wait for things to become adjusted by time.

Chugg was behaving in a most exemplary manner. He drove rigidly as an automaton, and apparently he looked no longer on the "lightning" when it was bottled. Once or twice he had applied his eye to the pane that separated him from his passenger and asked questions relative to her comfort, but Mary was too utterly dejected to reply in more than monosyllables. As they crept along, the sun dried timbers of the stage creaked and groaned in seeming protest at wearing its life away in endless journeyings over this desert waste, then settled down into one of those maddeningly monotonous repetitions to which certain inanimate things are given in seasons of nervous tension. This time it was, "All the world's a stage—creak—creak—creak—the world's a stage—creak—creak—creak—over and over till Mary found herself fast succumbing to the hypnotic effect of the constant repetition.

Baseball Gossip.

Charley Bender, Philadelphia Americans' Great Pitcher.

The victory of the Philadelphia Athletics in the American league race and their good showing against the New York Nationals in the world's championship series mark them as one of the strongest teams that ever trod on a baseball diamond.

To Charley Bender, the stellar Indian pitcher, belongs most of the credit for the splendid record of the Athletics. His deceptive shoots and benders are puzzling to even the most experienced of batsmen.

Bender was formerly a student in Uncle Sam's college for aborigines at Carlisle, Pa. He showed striking ability as a baseball tinker there, and experts soon "touted" him as a coming wonder in the box.

In the second game against the New York Giants Bender "let down" the National champions with only four hits, striking out the mighty Dan McGinnis no less than three times. That is "going some" in race track parlance.

Bender is as good as was Amos Rusie in his best days, and he is almost as good a twirler as Christy Mathewson is today, and that is saying a great deal.

One of the freaks of fortune in the baseball world is the contrast between scholar and pupil, as exemplified by Manager Edward Hanlon, leader of the tall end Brooklyn team in the National league, and John McGraw, manager of the New York Giants. Hughey Jennings, manager of the Baltimore team, and Jack Dunn, manager of the Providence pennant winners. Hanlon, a bratny baseball man, has encountered nothing but ill luck since the American league took his stars away from Brooklyn.

President Charles Morton of the Ohio-Pennsylvania league has forwarded to Secretary Farrell of the National association $25 from each club which wishes to enter a league next year. The money is for a renewal of a franchise for 1906.

Those who placed money in President Morton's hands were Akron, Youngstown, Newark, Lancaster, Zanesville, Homestead, Braddock and Butler, Pa.

These eight clubs may form a new league next year, and if they do a strong organization so far as ability to play is concerned is predicted.

A meeting is about to be held to settle up the affairs of the Ohio-Pennsylvania league.

An attack of sunstroke was the cause of James O'Quinnson, Pratt taking up his residence in Guilford workhouse in 1900.

Pratt was connected with the East India company, but during a voyage home to England in 1870 he had an attack of sunstroke, and was landed at Cape Town as insane.

When he recovered, his proper senses some years later he learned that the government had taken over the East India company's affairs by an act of parliament passed in 1873—the East India stock redemption act.

Further than that, Pratt had been reported dead to the Whitehall authorities, and all his representations and proofs to the contrary failed to have effect. He was told that he was officially dead the government could do nothing for him, and at last distressed circumstances forced him to seek the shelter of the workhouse.

A publisher's reader drew forth his notebook.

"A French masseur has written a novel in English," he said, "and submitted it to my house for publication. I read this novel last week. I copied a few sentences from it. Let me read you one or two of them."

The man read these sentences: "Her hand was cold, like that of a serpent."

"The artist wore a velvet jacket with pants of the same color."

"There is a bright flush on your cheek," he whispered, "a flush as beautiful and red as a lobster."

"Ha, ha," he exclaimed in Spanish.

"He paced the floor, his hands behind him, reading a newspaper."

"As she was about to reply a door opened and closed her mouth."

"She ran to open the portal, with her dear little feet pattering along the corridor."

SHERMAN BALKED AT SCRATCH.

Why Barber Had Poor Opinion of the Great General.

James Johnstone, the noted baseball umpire, was the guest of honor at a recent banquet of baseball "fans," a banquet that was a protest against Mr. Johnstone's proposed retirement.

"A health to square Jim Johnstone, the bravest umpire that ever called a strike," the toastmaster said, and Umpire Johnstone, in his acknowledgment, talked about bravery.

"I am square," he said, "but I don't pretend to be particularly brave. Squareness, by itself, will make a man a successful umpire. He has no great need of bravery on the diamond. Who, indeed, needs bravery overmuch? Even the soldier doesn't. Obedience and a sense of pride will carry any soldier through."

"Sometimes I doubt if soldiers are ever brave. I am like the barber who once shaved Sherman."

This barber, in shaving the great General, cut him, and Sherman, as he buttoned his collar at the operation's end, said, with a good deal of bitterness:

"You cut my ear. I won't come here again."

"The barber sneered."

"And they say," he muttered, "that you fought through four campaigns."

Sawyer money to a Door county man, namely, that their meaning was to charge the purpose of "corrupting and bribing" legislative candidates. This, we think, may reasonably mean mere bribing, in the colloquial sense without necessarily importing all the technical elements of the crime of bribery; the complaint being entitled to favorable and liberal construction to support it.

"We are further of the opinion that the remark at the close of the article of Sept. 22, 'It would be interesting to know how far the money went on its return journey,' is capable of carrying the insinuation of a suspected conversion of misappropriation of it by the plaintiff. The mere capability of the libelous meaning is all that the court need pass on, and all that we have meant to declare in our discussion of other parts of this publication. Whether such meaning was in fact conveyed to the readers is a jury question."

Cases Supported by Every Authority. "We are urged to overrule Bradley vs. Cramer and a line of following cases in holding that words merely tending to subject plaintiff to degradation, contempt, or ridicule, when published in writing, are libelous per se without proof or allegation of special damage. We shrink from doing so, since we find them supported by every authority, ancient or modern, within our knowledge, which treats the subject. Counsel refer us to some discussion in Newell on S. & L. page 850, which he deems inconsistent with the decisions in this court, but it is not at all so when we read in comprehension of the distinctions laid down by the same author. Thus he declares special damages are necessary of allegation or proof only when the published words are not actionable per se. Newell S. & L. pages 841, 849. Written words which subject plaintiff to disgrace or ridicule are actionable per se. Ib. page 43. Such words, if spoken, are actionable only in case of special damages. Ib. page 84. It is not necessary to prove special damages in any case of libel. Ib. page 856.

Immaterial is the circumstance urged by some of the appellants, that the charges against Mr. Sawyer are nowhere alleged to be false. If true, that only aggravates the defamatory effect of a false charge against plaintiff of complicity and participation.

"By the court—Orders appealed from are affirmed."

TO FINISH CANAL IN THE NEXT DECADE

Washington, Oct. 25.—The isthmian canal commission has made public a letter written by Isham Randolph, a member of the board of consulting engineers of the Panama canal, to Zina R. Carter, president of the sanitary district of Chicago, which embodies the views of Mr. Randolph concerning canal matters. He recently has returned from a visit to Panama with other members of the board and his opinions are interesting and in view of the publication of the letter by the commission may be considered semi-official.

"What we do know is that it can be done; that Americans can do it and that in as short a time as so stupendous an undertaking can be put through," he says. "We do know that almost limitless resources await the demand of the builders; that the builders represent the highest grade of American engineering talent, led on by a man whose record of accomplishment is but the earnest of the things that he shall do."

May Finish in Decade.

"We may reasonably look for the passage of the great ocean freighters from the Caribbean to the Pacific before our calendars are headed 1915. How much before this depends sayeth not. This is no easy triumph for the builders who must contend with and overcome difficulties not encountered in our temperate zone. First there are climatic difficulties, which may investigations force me to believe have been magnified. The question of

Producing the Yawn.

A characteristic attitude of the fatigue of the will, as manifested in attention, is yawning. This arises from a deep, slow, and involuntary inspiration by which the lungs are filled with air, which is then slowly expired, the mouth being held open and the glottis slightly shut so as to produce that strange characteristic noise which is the dread of orators.

The City and the Country.

The cities are overcrowded and there is no prospect of their population growing less. Beware of the foolish fascination that you must locate in the city. Don't be a human moth fluttering around the great city candle.—Exchange.

Nothing More to Say.

"Is she pretty?" they asked of the young man who was speaking of his fiancée. "Well, I don't want to boast," he replied, "but she always gets a seat in a crowded streetcar."—Stray Stories.

proper housing has been a problem, but its solution is progressive.

"The source of supply for labor so far has been Jamaica. The efficiency of this labor is low, as low as 25 per cent, taking an average laborer in our latitude as the unit. There is no pressure which can be applied to these people which will make them do their best under existing conditions. The introduction of the eight-hour system on the isthmus seems a lamentable mistake.

Machinery is Abandoned.

"The whole line is cluttered up with abandoned French machinery, which cost $30,000,000, but now is valueless. I cast no reflections upon the work of the French. They left behind them evidences of engineering skill and successful battles with difficulties which convince me that if the honest workers had been sustained and the vast sums which were diverted into robber channels had been legitimately applied it might to-day be the mission of the United States only to enlarge the Panama canal.

"As to the feeding of the men, there was a reasonable variety of well-cooked, wholesome food, better than I have found in 75 per cent of the contractors' camps. The charge for this board is 25 cents per meal, or $22.50 per month. The hospitals are a source of just pride to our people."

Mr. Randolph in conclusion says no information relating to any of the fundamentals will be given out until the official report is issued.

A Conversational Need.

"Money talks!" said the impudent grafter.

"Yes," answered the member of the grand jury, "but it is about time there was some sort of a grammar to hold it down to proper discourse."

The Proof at Hand.

"Yes, I did pay some attention to Miss Filbert, but I finally began to think that she was a person of very poor taste and—

"Sir, she is to be my wife!"

"And now I know it."

EXAMINER DISCOVERS BANK REPORTS DIFFER

Discrepancy Between Statements Made to Comptroller Ridgely by Institutions at Pittsburg.

Pittsburg, Pa., Oct. 25.—At a late hour Tuesday night it was learned that Bank Examiner John B. Cunningham, while making an examination of the Bank of Pittsburg, N. A., found a discrepancy between the reports made to the Comptroller of the Currency Ridgely by the Bank of Pittsburg, N. A., and the Enterprise National bank of Allegheny, which led to the closing of the latter institution. Acting Attorney General Hoyt has directed United States District Attorney John M. Denkle to make a thorough investigation into the affair of the Enterprise National bank with a view to criminal proceedings if the evidence warrants such a course.

The will of T. Lee Clark, the dead cashier, dated March 24, 1897, was filed Tuesday. The estate will probably go to the closed bank, leaving the widow only the insurance money, of which she has received $46,000.

Francis J. Torrance denied having used any influence toward making the bank a state depository and stated that his individual dealings with the bank were trifling.

The directors of the bank, all of whom are wealthy, are in favor of reopening should the shortage, not prove too great. The bank's loss may be considerably less than $1,000,000. The directors of the closed bank were in session long after midnight discussing plans to audit the books.

SPARKS FROM THE WIRES.

The South Dakota supreme court has decided that the county seat of Walworth county shall be at Bangor. The citizens of Shelby one night went to Bangor, tore down the old county building and carted the records off to Shelby. Bangor took the matter to court.

The Pugh law, providing for street improvements, repairs, sweeping and sprinkling, was upheld by the Ohio supreme court, and as a result the city of Columbus will realize many thousands of dollars now tied up in litigation.

W. H. Seeley, a brakeman on the Chicago and Alton, was killed while coupling cars at Ridgely, Ill. The burial will be at Bradford, Pa.

The annual state convention of the school-teachers of northern Illinois will be held at Dixon, Ill., on Friday and Saturday. About 600 teachers are expected.

The Southern Homeopathic association at Louisville, Ky., elected Dr. E. Stillman Bailey of Chicago president. Baron Speck Von Sternburg left Berlin Monday to board the Kaiser Wilhelm II to rejoin his post in Washington.

Consul General Robert J. Wynne of London shortly will visit the United States. He will testify in the legal prosecutions growing out of the investigation of the postoffice frauds.
